WASHINGTON (AP) — Cuban exiles clashed with police in a wild melee nearby as the 20-nation Inter-American conference convened Tuesday while sentiment grew for total diplomatic and trade isolation of Fidel Castro's Cuba.

As the foreign ministers began their four-day meeting to consider sanctions against the Communist Caribbean nation, several hundred Cubans in a crowd of 5,000 that set out to stage a peaceful demonstration fought and struggled with scores of police.

They threw stones, jeered and cheered. They chanted, "Cuba si, Russia no." They carried banners saying in English and Spanish, "We save Cuba or we lose America."

Wirtz Supports Overtime Raise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz told Congress Tuesday that millions of hours of overtime work could be translated into new jobs for the unemployed.

Testifying in support of legislation that has roused vigorous business opposition, Wirtz urged expanding and increasing overtime pay in many industries.

The proposal under consideration would require double pay for overtime, rather than time and one-half, in some industries.

Reds Reject U. S. Protest

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union rejected Tuesday a U.S. protest that shells were fired across the bow of the American cargo ship Sister Katingo. The Russians claimed only signal rockets were used.

Further, the Russians accused the Sister Katingo's skipper, Arthur H. Fertig, of acting in a "crude and unpardonable way" to three stevedore officials and demonstrating what they termed his "trans-ocean" culture in front of Russian sailors.

Reds Ambush Big Viet Convoy

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Communist guerrillas ambushed a big government convoy in Viet Nam's deep south Tuesday and set off a series of battles that raged into the night.

American sources said government units suffered heavy casualties—as many as 60 dead and possibly 100 wounded. Among the wounded was a U. S. adviser. Hit in the left knee and shoulder, he was flown to Saigon and hospitalized.

Offensive Mail Regulation Voted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, ignoring the charge it was creating a nation of censors, Tuesday passed a bill designed to let home-owners block "morally offensive" mail.

A 325-19 roll call vote sent the bill to the Senate.

Under the bill, a person receiving mail he considers morally offensive could notify the postmaster general that he wants future mailings from that source stopped. The sender would get 30 days to comply with the postmaster general's order.

Cuba Raid Boat Stopped By U. S.

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — A speedy 30-foot launch crammed with arms and ammunition, including at least one 20mm cannon, was seized Tuesday and the five men aboard arrested.

Four of the men were Cuban exiles apparently bound for raiding missions against Cuba. The fifth was an American photographer.

Stock Market Slides Lower

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices recovered from a fairly steep afternoon tumble to close moderately lower Tuesday.

Trading was relatively slow, falling below the 5 million share level for the seventh straight session. It totaled 4.53 million shares, up from Monday's 4.33 million.

At 1 and 1:30 p.m. the Dow Jones industrials were lower by more than 5 points. This average closed at 846.53, off 2.44 or the most since June 23 when it fell 3.68.

Barry Gains On Johnson; Leads In South

By Louis Harris Harris Survey

WASHINGTON — A survey of a cross section of American voters shows that Senator Barry Goldwater has gained 10 percentage points in his race against President Lyndon Johnson as compared to his standing before the Republican convention.

However, Democrat Johnson still leads Republican Goldwater by 64 to 36 per cent.

Leads In South But Goldwater has now surged into a clear lead in the South, where he is ahead 55 to 45 per cent.

The Gallup poll reported yesterday a wider margin of 70 per cent to 30 per cent for President Johnson.

The same voters who were surveyed just before the Republican convention were questioned immediately after Goldwater's acceptance speech.

They were asked to express their choice between Goldwater and Johnson on the assumption that Governor George Wallace of Alabama was not a candidate. Wallace quit the race last week.

The results before and after the convention, with eight per cent undecided vote allocated on the basis of their past voting behavior:

Pre-convention — Johnson, 74 per cent; Goldwater, 26 per cent.

Post-convention — Johnson, 64 per cent; Goldwater, 36 per cent.

Regional Breakdown

Regional breakdown of the post-convention survey shows that Goldwater has gained in every section of the country, with his most spectacular advances scored in the South:

East — Johnson 74 per cent, Goldwater 26 per cent; Midwest — Johnson 64 per cent, Goldwater 36 per cent; South — Johnson 45 per cent, Goldwater 55 per cent; West — Johnson 69 per cent, Goldwater 31 per cent.

The big Goldwater gain in the South — 16 points in less than three weeks — is in sharp contrast to the smaller advance in the East where Goldwater has moved up six points.

Same Voters Surveyed

In all cases, these percentages represent actual changes in attitudes by the same voters who were interviewed before the convention in San Francisco.

Nixon Surge It should be remembered that in 1960, Republican candidate Richard Nixon registered his biggest gains of the whole campaign just after the Republican convention nominated him for President.

Nixon was never able to score comparable advances.

Secret Ballot Voting was by secret ballot. The directors were asked at the close of the meeting, if they cared to make public their individual votes. None of the directors did so.

In other business, the board agreed to ask borough council to make Third Street, from Broadway to Market, a one-way, northbound street and permit parking on both sides.

The reason for this is that the new administration building for the school district will be on Third St. in the former Steinmetz home. The administration is moving from its old building at Fourth and Market Streets.

Harold LaPenna, Washington Township, turned over a check for $30,000 to the newly formed district. He explained this was the liquidating balance of the township's school board treasury.

This amount is in addition to $8,700 that has been placed in a trust fund for future school needs of the township.

Heard Elected To Bangor School Board

BANGOR — W. John Heard, former Bangor teacher and presently assistant admissions officer at Rider College in Trenton, N.J., was elected to the Bangor Area School Board last night on a 5-3 second ballot vote.

The first ballot ended in a 4-4 tie between Heard and David Stoddard.

Heard succeeds Dr. Nicholas Cascario, who resigned earlier this month. He will complete Cascario's term, which ends December, 1965.

Senate Unit Backs Free News Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — A freedom of information bill — that would buttress the public's access to news of the federal government's affairs — was approved Tuesday by a Senate committee.

The measure now goes to the Senate — part of the first major effort in 18 years to overhaul operating procedures for some 100 federal departments and agencies.

Bureaucratic Hiding Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo., co-sponsor of the bill with Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, said it would "go a long way toward correcting the current miserable situation under which bureaucrats can and do hide any and all embarrassing information."

The Senate Judiciary Committee cleared the bill after it was endorsed by Sam Ragan, president of The Associated Press Managing Editors Association, as an effort to "make more accessible public information which the public has a right to know."

Ragan is executive news editor of two North Carolina newspapers, the Raleigh News and Observer and the Raleigh Times.

The measure would require all federal agencies to make public how, where and when it operates and clearly identify the means of public access to information about decisions, rulings and statements of policy.

Agency records would be available for inspection and copying under safeguards stated in the bill. Federal district courts would be empowered to enjoin an agency from withholding information and punish offending officials by holding them in contempt of court.

State GOP Leaders Study Barry Impact

HARRISBURG (AP) — A Republican strategy conference was called today to gauge support of the Pennsylvania ticket with Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater at the head of it.

State Chairman Craig Truax said the meeting of all 67 county chairmen would be held in Harrisburg, probably Aug. 4 or 5.

There was some grumbling at the San Francisco convention among the Pennsylvania delegation about supporting a ticket headed by the conservative Goldwater. The Pennsylvania group was almost solidly for Gov. William W. Scranton, Goldwater's principal opponent for the presidential nomination.

Nikita Attacks Barry

WARSAW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev said today Sen. Barry Goldwater is attempting "to enter the White House under the slogan of frantic anti-communism and military threats."

Khrushchev spoke on a program with the Polish Communist leader Wladyslaw Gomulka, who also assailed Goldwater.

U. S. Ambassador John Moors Cabot walked out in the middle of Gomulka's speech, which preceded Khrushchev's.

Khrushchev said: "The Americans themselves say that one should not take everything said during the presidential campaign seriously. But the election of a president and the laying down of foreign policy for several years cannot help but absorb all attention."

"If warlike slogans are thrown about during the election campaign then the socialist countries cannot but draw appropriate conclusions."

Khrushchev advised that these countries "keep their weapons clean" and be prepared for any eventuality in a change of U. S. policy.

Cabot was followed out of the hall by British Ambassador Sir George Lisle Clutton. Neither envoy was present for Khrushchev's speech.

Khrushchev arrived today to help Poland celebrate its 20th anniversary as a Communist nation and to confer with three other Red chiefs of Eastern Europe.

Both Javits and Keating expressed hope they could support the GOP national ticket before the campaign is over. But Javits indicated his decision would hinge on a restatement or clarification of Goldwater's position.

Keating, up for reelection this year, said again he hasn't decided whether he will run. He also has indicated that, if he does, it would be as an independent Republican.

Goldwater's office in Washington said he would have no comment.

Most Republican senators who commented on Javits' statement, which came before Keating's, said his position was his privilege.

"I'm sure he made his statement out of an abiding conviction," said Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Senate Republican leader.

Not Bolting Party Javits said he was not bolting the party—that he would remain a Republican and would not support President Johnson in the upcoming election.

He urged "all progressive Republicans" to remain in the party and said: "We must not surrender our party for all time to the ultra-conservative forces."

Keating said he didn't want to lay down dogmatic conditions for his possible later support of Goldwater but said the Arizona conservative should dissociate himself from all extremist groups.

Keating said he would examine Goldwater's legislative record closely during the remaining days of Congress on human and foreign needs.

Vote For Johnson? Asked whether he might vote for President Johnson this fall, Keating said: "I don't want to talk about voting at this time."

Rep. John V. Lindsay, R-N.Y., also up for reelection this fall, said after the convention that he would have to search his conscience before deciding whether to support Goldwater.

Javits, Keating and Lindsay all supported Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York for the presidential nomination.

Sens. Keating, Javits Oppose Goldwater

NEW YORK (AP) — New York's two Republican senators said Tuesday they could not at this time support Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, the party's nominee for president.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, in New York, couched his statement with a rap at what he called "ultra-conservative forces."

Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, in Washington, said Goldwater should dissociate himself from all extremist groups "like the John Birch Society."

President Condemns Lawlessness In USA

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson ordered the FBI Tuesday to make a complete investigation of the rioting in Harlem to determine whether there has been any violation of federal laws.

The President said the nation has been shocked by the three nights of disorders and emphasized: "In the preservation of law and order there can be no compromise. It must be made clear once and for all that violence and lawlessness cannot, must not and will not be tolerated."

He concluded: "I have directed Mr. J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, to contact (Police) Commissioner Michael J. Murphy and the governor of New York to inform them that we are conducting a complete investigation of the possibility of violation of federal laws in connection with the recent disturbance and offering them our complete cooperation."

Johnson did not say what federal laws might have been violated, but alleged police brutality against Negroes—claimed by some Negroes in Harlem—would be a federal offense if proven.

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor Robert F. Wagner cut short a European trip and returned to this racially troubled city Tuesday.

The mayor went into a closed door huddle with Acting Mayor Paul Serevane and other officials to discuss the city's tense racial situation. Violence has taken one life and brought injury to more than 100 persons.

Wagner welcomed the federal cooperation, but added that he had "complete faith" in city Police Commissioner Michael Murphy.

Right To Protection "American citizens," Johnson said, "have a right to protection of life and limb—whether driving along a highway in Georgia; a road in Mississippi; or a street in New York City."

Johnson's statement was read to newsmen by White House press secretary George Reed.

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, in his speech accepting the Republican presidential nomination last Thursday, said in part: "The growing menace to personal safety, to life, limb and property, in homes, churches, playgrounds and places of business, particularly in our great cities, is the most elemental and fundamental purpose of every thoughtful citizen."

"Security from domestic violence, no less than from foreign aggression, is the most elementary and fundamental purpose of every government."

Goldwater has suggested keeping civil rights out of the campaign—in which Johnson is parking lot. About 25 white spectators looked on.

"You aren't going to look that way when you leave," a white man said loudly as Dr. King passed by in a conversational conversation with COFO leaders.

The political threat posed by the emerging party centers, by the moment, on plans to try to displace the Mississippi delegation at the national Democratic convention next month.

National Support The new party has been assured of support by Democratic organizations in New York, Michigan, Wisconsin, Oregon, California and Colorado.

Precinct, county and state conventions are planned as the groundwork for sending a Freedom Democratic party delegation to challenge the regular party group.

The challenge would be on the grounds that the convention should not seat a delegation from a state which has barred some of its citizens from voting.

Negro leaders said the new party was formed because not enough Negroes had been allowed to vote to force any change in the regular party structure.

It is unofficially estimated there are about 26,000 Negroes registered as voters out of 430,000 of voting age. Specific figures are not available.

Negro Judge Fears Protest Backlash

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A Philadelphia Negro judge called Tuesday for an end to what he termed needless civil rights demonstrations for the duration of the presidential election campaign.

Judge Raymond Pace Alexander of Common Pleas Court, Harvard educated and a former city councilman, said he feared what he termed a white backlash and the far right reactionary Republican ticket of Sen. Barry M. Goldwater of Arizona. Alexander is a Democrat.

He urged the moratorium on the demonstrations in a letter to the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., Negro civil rights leader.

Alexander also disclosed he would go to Jackson, Miss., next month to speak to student civil rights workers under the auspices of Dr. King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

In the letter, Alexander backed Dr. King's nonviolent campaigns of civil disobedience against what he termed unjust and immoral southern state laws.

He said, however, that "needless demonstrations and needless threats of sit-ins," especially in the north, "bring discredit upon us."

Alexander proposed the creation of a speakers bureau which would send prominent persons of both races around the country to give a "true image" of the Negro.

Alexander also disclosed he

Tate Gives Plan For Stilt Stadium

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The city revealed Tuesday Mayor James H. J. Tate's plan for financing construction of a sports stadium over the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks near the 30th Street Station in West Philadelphia.

City Finance Director Edward J. Martin, who announced the plans prior to a meeting of community leaders, said that the $29 million proposed stadium could be financed with only $4 million of taxpayers' money.

Martin said that the Redevelopment Authority would issue $12 million in bonds, and the railroad and its partners would be expected to furnish $13 million in private capital.

Under the city plan, the PRR group would construct and operate the stadium for 40 years. All stadium revenue, including a 25-cent surcharge on admissions, would be pledged to repayment of the bonds.

Youth Dies After Kidney Operation

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Robert Wemy, 26, one of two persons who received transplanted kidneys at Hahnemann Medical College last November, died Monday night.

Wemy, a Philadelphian, received one transplant last August, but when that proved unsuccessful his uncle donated a kidney Nov. 6.

Wemy's second transplant was considered successful in January by doctors, who said his kidney function was adequate at time of death. He died of an infection, they said.

The survivor of the two kidney transplants is Paullette Strausser, 11, of Leesport, Pa. She has been examined repeatedly by doctors since leaving the hospital and they report she appears to be doing very well.

100-Year-Old Throws Pills Out

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Mrs. Edmonia Collins of Lanesville observed her 100th birthday Monday. Asked to what she attributed her longevity, she replied:

"Ever since I was a little girl I poured all the medicine doctors ever gave me down the drain. I planted their pills in my flower pots."

U. S. Rep. Gives $3,000 For Barry

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Congressman James G. Fulton, R-Pa., presented a check for $3,000 for the presidential campaign of Barry M. Goldwater at a political rally for the Arizona senator Monday night.

The money, submitted through Rep. Fulton's secretary Martha Cameron, was money he received from supporters of Sen. Goldwater, the Republican nominee for president, and not Fulton's personal check, the secretary said.

The 27th District congressman also stipulated that the money is to be used in Pennsylvania, she said.

Rep. Fulton announced over the weekend that he would run independently which he has done several times in the past. Democrats have a registration majority of 30,000 in his district.

School Bd. Awaits Court Bible Ruling

LEBANON, Pa. (AP) — The Cornwall-Lebanon Suburban Joint School Board voted Monday night to await the written directive of U. S. District Court before moving ahead with plans to incorporate the Bible as part of its curriculum next fall.

Robert S. Lux, chairman of the board, said a directive is expected "very soon" from federal judge Frederick V. Follmer in Lewisburg.

Follmer withheld action last week in the case until at least the start of the new school term, pending completion of the proposed study program.

The action stems from a suit brought against the school district by Mr. and Mrs. James N. Snavely, of North Lebanon Twp., complaining that two of their children were forced to take part in Bible reading as a religious exercise.

The Snavelys claim the proposed study course is nothing but a "subterfuge" on the part of the school district to get around a U.S. Supreme Court ruling last year banning required Bible reading and prayer in public schools.

Lux said the school district already has submitted materials on its proposed study course to the Department of Public Instruction and will formally ask for approval upon receipt of the letter from Judge Follmer.

An official of the DPI said last week the school district had not yet asked for state approval.

Philly Labor Plans Battle On Goldwater

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Norman Blumberg, president of the Philadelphia AFL-CIO Council, said Monday the labor federation is launching an immediate campaign against Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, the Republican presidential candidate.

The AFL-CIO normally waits until Labor Day to announce its stand on presidential candidates, Blumberg said.

He added, however, that the labor federation is launching its campaign Monday because of what he termed the immediate danger injected into this campaign by Goldwater's tactics.

This political Pied Piper, with his tunes of hate, bigotry and un-Americanism actually proposes to lead the nation down the dark roads of depression, insecurity, fear and chaos," Blumberg said.

The labor leader said the voting records of both Goldwater and Rep. William F. Miller, his running mate on the Republican ticket, "have been consistently in opposition to labor's stand for many years."

State Police Complain Of Low Morale

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP)—The Fraternal Order of Police disclosed today its new president will meet with Gov. Scranton next week for talks about alleged low morale among state police.

John J. Harrington, retiring after two terms as FOP president, said the organization has approved a meeting of its new leader with the governor and Lt. Gov. Raymond Shafer.

The FOP's new president will be elected here Thursday at the final session of the group's 18th biennial conference.

The FOP charges the morale of the state police has deteriorated materially because of unnecessary transfers, a need for improved working conditions and fairer examinations. The promotion system also is under attack.

The FOP also charges that state police active in the FOP have been threatened with transfers.

Judge Follmer, noting at the hearing last Monday that only part of the proposed study program had been completed, ordered the board to submit the full plan to the Department of Public Instruction as soon as possible.

Jim Thorpe Attraction Dies; Residents Want Old Name

JIM THORPE, Pa. (AP) — Back in 1954, this picturesque coal mining town was renamed in honor of Jim Thorpe, the Oklahoma Indian many regard as the greatest athlete of all time.

Now, some folks want to restore the old name, Mauch Chunk. It's no reflection on Thorpe, who, so far as known, never laid eyes on the town but is buried in a $17,000 mausoleum here.

The renaming campaign seems to come from fading dreams of attracting tourists with the Thorpe name thus boosting the town economy.

Thorpe had been dead 11 months when his body was brought here on Feb. 8, 1954. The train bearing the casket was met by the leading town citizens, the high school band and cheering school children who had a half-day holiday from school.

Actually, there were two towns — Mauch Chunk and east Mauch Chunk — with a total population of about 6,000. At the May primary that year they voted overwhelmingly to merge and become Jim Thorpe, Pa.

In return for changing its name, the town — economically depressed by the failing hard coal industry and the decline of railroads — was to become a national shrine dedicated to the memory of the man who gained fame as a football and baseball star and for his track and field performances in the 1912 Olympics. It also was to get a cancer hospital and a museum, under the original planning.

To Face Questioning

Atty. Bernard Gould of the commission's Bureau of Inquiry and Compliance will call witnesses for questioning.

Atty. Gould said last night he expects to call nine or ten witnesses to determine the circumstances surrounding the tragic episode, when an American Cyanamid Co. trailer loaded with 15 tons of explosives went off and claimed six lives.

Among the witnesses expected to be called to testify is Albert Koda, 51, of Port Carbon, the driver of the ill-fated trailer that caused early morning havoc on Rt. 209, near Echo Lake.

Atty. Francis H. S. Ede of Pen Argyl, Koda's lawyer, said he understood the driver would be subpoenaed to appear. Ede said he would also attend the hearings.

Unable To Testify Atty. Gould said if the hearings uncover any criminal negligence, the ICC would hold other proceedings but would not be able to use testimony taken during the public hearings.

Gould said that in addition to government technicians, he would call representatives from the Cyanamid Company.

Last night, Carl Spitzer, Cyanamid's public relations director, said the following company personnel have been subpoenaed:

William Poppert, Samuel Hughes, Roger Newell and Robert Grubb.

Spitzer said the company will be represented by Atty. James Kitzon of Stroudsburg. He also said Harold Gross, general manager of Cyanamid's legal division, will attend the hearings as an observer.

Rooney To Attend Congressman Fred B. Rooney, who asked the ICC to hold the hearings, said he will fly to Stroudsburg by chartered plane to attend the opening session.

"I am sure the ICC will hold full and extensive hearings and that the testimony developed will prevent the recurrence of such a tragic disaster," Rooney said.

A spokesman for the state Dept. of Labor and Industry said that department will send John Martin, department deputy secretary, and Miss Ilana Cummings, a member of the legal staff.

David Branson, public relations director of the state Public Utilities Commission, said the commission declined to take part in the hearings because it has no jurisdiction.

However, Branson said PUC commission's William O'Hara of Scranton will attend as an observer.

Others expected to testify, include Stanley Komoshinsky, state police fire marshal from Hazleton, who conducted a state probe of the blast.

Atty. Gould said he expects to finish his case in the scheduled two days.

"However," he continued, "I have no way of controlling or knowing what other people will do."

May Cross Examine Gould said the hearings will be open to anyone wanting to testify. He said all parties concerned will have an opportunity to cross examine any witness.

It could not be determined if any Marshalls Creek firemen, who lost three members fighting the blazing truck, will be called on to testify.

Gould did say "some local people" will be called but he refused to identify any.

Atty. Kenneth Lewis, who represents the fire company and Richard MacDonough — one of the two firemen at the scene who survived the blast — said he knew of no local people who have been asked to testify.

Atty. Lewis said he will attend the hearings regardless.

North Pole Re-Opened To Public

SCOTRUN — The North Pole, an annual tourist attraction on Rt. 611 in Scotrun, was re-opened to the public yesterday after it was found the owners have complied with improvements recommended by the state Game Commission.

The commission closed the attraction July 1 after finding repairs were needed to make the premises comply with commission menagerie regulations.

Yesterday, John Molski, warden for the commission's district office in Dallas, inspected the North Pole and found the improvements were made.

Permit Re-Issued After the inspection, Molski re-issued a menagerie permit to David Irwin, North Pole owner, according to Zachary Irwin, son of the owner.

Young Irwin said improvements were made to the deer and llama pens and fox cages.

Police Seek Vacationers

MT. POCONO — State Police at Mt. Pocono said last night they are attempting to locate either Mr. and Mrs. John J. Kody or Mr. and Mrs. Morris Monset, both of Warwick, R.I., who are believed to be staying in a Pocono Mountain motel.

Police said either of the couples should contact Miss Rita Mulcahy in Warwick at RE7-7949.

Hearing On Assault Postponed

MOUNTAINHOME — A hearing for a 21-year-old Greentown laborer, charged with assault and battery, was postponed. He was committed to the Monroe County Jail yesterday after he was treated for a bullet wound of the left thigh and other injuries.

The man, Donald E. Elders, was arrested by Barrett Twp. police on a complaint brought by Irvin G. Mick, owner and operator of a taxi service and filing station in Mountainhome.

At an arraignment before Clifford L. Bush, justice of the peace in Cresco, Mick charged Elders assaulted him with an automobile jack handle at the service station early yesterday.

Bush said Elders was hit in the leg by a .22 caliber bullet fired by Mick in an attempt to defend himself. Elders suffered cuts of the fingers on both hands and a cut beside his right eye when he broke the glass in the station door in an attempt to reach Mick, according to Bush.

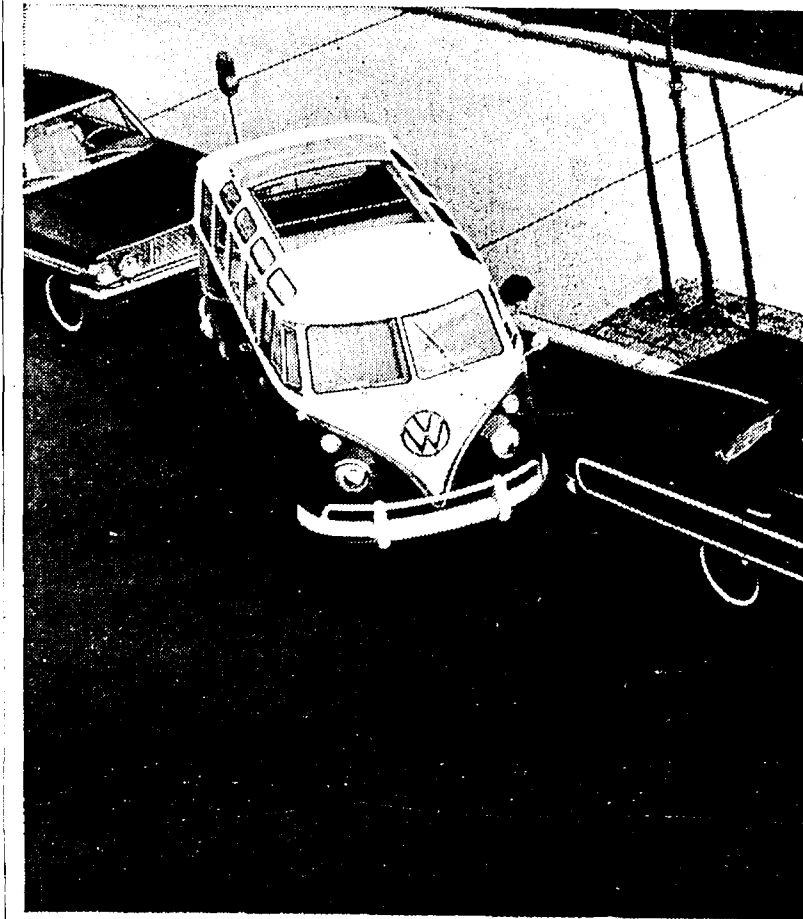

Elders was released after treatment at the General Hospital of Monroe County. He was arrested by Patrolman Daniel Van Why.

No date has been set for the hearing.

Fire Causes $600 Damage

POCONO PINES—About $600 damage was caused to a kitchen in a fire at the home occupied by the William Lewis family in Pocono Pines Monday night.

The blaze was confined to the kitchen by volunteers of the Tobyhanna Twp. Fire Co. Firemen said the fire was "electrical in nature." Firemen were on the scene 55 minutes. The home is owned by John Bush.

All of a sudden, it stops looking funny.

If you think a Volkswagen Station Wagon is just a funny-looking car maybe you never saw one fit in a space that regular wagons have to pass by. And when you realize how much stuff you could put inside that thing like the Christmas someone drove one to their mother's with six people and the crib, the high chair, bicycles, luggage, presents...room? you couldn't ask for more and an air-cooled engine that won't bail over or freeze up and it starts in the morning 1-2-3 and when you stop at a gas station, it fills it up and you don't have to worry about gas for maybe 3 weeks and take kids for instance "Are we going in the Volkswagen bus?" and they say "Yay!" and clap their hands and it's a glorious day you can slide the sunroof back and let a little of the glory in and all of a sudden, it stops looking funny.

Northampton GOP May Take Action On Mrs. Chase's Support Of Barry

JOHNSONVILLE — A special meeting of the Northampton County Republican executive committee may be called to discuss possible action on the vote of Barry Goldwater supporter Mrs. Frances Chase of Easton.

This was announced yesterday by Joseph A. Ide, Northampton County Republican chairman. Mrs. Chase backed Sen. Goldwater when the Arizona won the presidential nomination. She represented the 15th Congressional District, which includes Monroe County, at last week's GOP national convention in San Francisco.

Ide said a special meeting could be called at the request of committee members but that no regular meeting of the executive committee is scheduled in July or August.

Critical Remarks

Mrs. Chase's stand for Goldwater was the object of critical remarks made at a recent meeting of the Portland-Mt. Bethel Republican Club and the County Republican Clubs Assn. at Johnsonville.

Mrs. Chase is vice chairman of the Northampton County Republican party and was one of four Pennsylvania delegates who refused to support Gov. William W. Scranton's candidacy.

It was noted that Mrs. Chase was elected as a delegate committed to support the party chair but went to the convention saying she was uncommitted. She read a statement in a Pennsylvania caucus stating she would vote for Goldwater because of conservative convictions.

Disappointment Expressed

Ide said disappointment was expressed at Mrs. Chase's action and it was proposed that "something be done" about her vote. The chairman reported to the Johnsonville meeting that only the executive committee could take action.

Mrs. Chase and her husband Ralph are at present returning from the convention by way of the Canadian Rockies.

The Portland - Mount Bethel group voted a donation of $25 to the Portland Ambulance Corps.

Paul Hay was re-elected to an eighth term as president. Other officers elected: Loring Nicholas, first vice president; Kathryn Ackerman, second vice president; Lillian MacNamee, secretary; Betty Kessler, treasurer; Franklin Smith, Otto Hochrein and Andrew Riller, directors for three years. Clair Peiffer was chosen as director for one year in place of Nicholas.

$1 Million Development Planned Near Tannersville

PHILADELPHIA — Plans for a million dollar home development and recreation area on the Meisertown Rd., near Tannersville, were revealed yesterday by a Philadelphia-based realty corporation.

Frankel said he has purchased the Pocono Country Lodge and the Brook - House Motel property, both located at the corner of Rt. 715 and Meisertown Rd. He said he is negotiating to buy the old Martha Henry tract, adjacent to the Brook-House property.

3 Appointed To Monroe Board

HARRISBURG — Three Monroe County residents have been appointed to the Monroe County Board of Assistance. Gov. Scranton's office announced yesterday.

The new board members are Mrs. Ella L. Flory of East Stroudsburg, Harry S. Eberhart of Pocono Pines, and Carl P. Meissner of Stroudsburg.

Realty Development Corp. and Brook-House Motel Corp., said a mine-hole regulation golf course and a nine-hole par-three course will be built on 190 acres that has been acquired for development purposes.

Frankel said he has purchased the Pocono Country Lodge and the Brook - House Motel property, both located at the corner of Rt. 715 and Meisertown Rd. He said he is negotiating to buy the old Martha Henry tract, adjacent to the Brook-House property.

Camelback Director

Frankel, who is also a director of the Camelback Ski Area, said he expects the golf area to be ready by next spring. At that time, he said it will be determined how many homes can be built on the remaining land.

He said he has invested more than $200,000 in property in the Tannersville area. "Because I expect it to grow."

The Philadelphia investor also said the Tannersville Realty Company bought 180 acres of the Bartonville tract from Interstate Rt. 80, the said this land will be developed as a residential and commercial area.

Frankel said he is building his development around a golf course because "... I am convinced people who come to the Poconos are building a second home and they want to do something more than boating."

He said he is experienced in building combination recreational-residential developments and is president of a small business investment company, which specializes in making loans in the general recreation and resort industry.

Enforcing The Law

Immediately after his nomination as Republican presidential candidate last week, Senator Barry Goldwater said he would make a major campaign issue out of "the abuse of law and order in this country, the total disregard for it, the mounting crime rate."

This week riots in which police shot one man dead and 100 were injured in Harlem were given world-wide publicity.

And J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, reported a ten per cent increase in the national crime rate with 2.5 million serious crimes in 1963 or four every minute.

There is no doubt that Goldwater has pointed to a major national and local problem.

But he started his discussion of this campaign issue with strange inconsistency when he stated that "the responsibility for this has to start someplace and it should start at the federal level with the federal courts enforcing the law."

One issue on which all Republicans—Goldwater and Scranton—agree is that local government responsibility should be exercised before federal government intervention. We agree with Goldwater, Scranton and the Republican platform on this vital issue.

It is therefore surprising to hear Goldwater suggest that responsibility for the enforcement of law and order in the United States should start at the federal level. He has been an outspoken critic of growing federal powers.

It was Goldwater who warned that the new civil rights law would lead to a "police state" requiring federal power for enforcement. We hope it does not, because the basic principle of American enforcement of law is reliance upon local police and state police, local courts and state courts, before we resort to special cases within federal jurisdiction.

to federal agents and federal courts.

In situations where state and local courts and police do not uphold the law, federal action is needed. Southern boycott of Negro rights under the federal constitution led to the federal civil rights law of 1964. That is a good example of necessary federal action.

But riots in Harlem or shootings in Mississippi must first be the responsibility of local and state police. Crime, although a national problem, must first be handled at the local level.

If as Goldwater mistakenly argues, responsibility for maintenance of law and order in the nation starts at the federal level, then we may very well have a national police force. America is one of the few nations without a national police force. We are blessed to live in a land where law and order are kept by local police and local courts.

When law and order do break down, as they have in Harlem and in parts of the South where angry Negroes and angry whites turn to violence instead of peaceful petition, through the law and the courts, the answer is greater local and state effort to keep the peace, not a new effort by the federal government.

President Johnson has pledged federal help when and if local police officials are unable to handle local disturbances and request federal help.

The President noted that there is no federal police force. The FBI, which Johnson ordered into Mississippi after three civil rights workers disappeared and into Harlem after the riots this week, can investigate only after the fact and can arrest only if a federal law is violated.

It is essential to the preservation of American freedom that the federal government refrain as much as possible from entering this vital area of local government responsibility.

'Why Not Join Me In Atlantic City?'

The Pennsylvania Story

State Demos Optimistic

By Mason Denison
HARRISBURG — One thing certain at the moment: Pennsylvania Democrats are resting easier these days—in fact they're virtually lolling in high and fine fettle!

They have their reasons; good reasons.

The one thing that stood as a somewhat horrifying and demoralizing specter to most Keystone State Democrats, as they peered ahead to the November elections, was the possibility that Pennsylvania Governor Scranton just might wind up somehow in the Republican national ticket.

With this possibility now over and done with, their prime worry and concern has been lifted overnight.

The fact is that Pennsylvania donkey riders are convinced (they have been all along) that they can carry Pennsylvania in the presidential runoff this November—with Mr. Scranton out of the way (out of the way meaning not on the ticket).

This attitude now prevails stronger than ever notwithstanding the fact that they no longer control Capitol Hill and the State Legislature — and that their party registration has been consistently on the dip.

Their argument is simple — and most certainly not without foundation and considerable sense — in that if President Johnson can carry the Keystone State in the presidential election this fall, they stand an excellent chance of pulling in many an office that otherwise in all probability would flower in the GOP garden.

With Mr. Scranton on the ticket their reasoning was — and again not without good foundation — that just the mere fact of having a Pennsylvania chief executive on the national score sheet would be enough to literally snow them under at the polls.

The fact that he is not on the ticket, plus the unexpected "bonus" that he negated himself to a fare-thee-well in his unsuccessful nomination bid last week, has proven more than enough to give donkey riders what might well be described as the happy twitch.

The feeling now is that notwithstanding their being the "outs" on Capitol Hill at the moment, they now have at least a fairly equitable and sporting chance of pulling out of the November fray in excellent shape.

Those within the party who prophesied (even within their own ranks) the loss of the two fiscal offices up for grabs this year — State Auditor General and State Treasurer — are now revising their thinking in light of Cow Palace developments of the past week.

In fact they believe now they have a very strong chance of retaining these two statewide offices within the Democratic grasp. This undeniably would be an unexpected extra for the anxious donkey riders.

Many a Democratic lawmaker is heaving a tremendous sigh of relief at the turn of events in GOPland, convinced that in those cases where a return engagement may be borderline, it will now be pretty well firm.

In fact many a Democratic strategist on the state level is talking with deadly seriousness of the strong possibility of snapping up control of the House of Representatives in the fall. It wouldn't take much; the elephant riders now hold control in the 209-seat lower chamber by barely a half dozen votes.

Much of this optimism on the part of Democrats depends of course on the "degree" with which Mr. Johnson carries the Keystone State — if he does, which now looks like a fair possibility.

It will require more than a mere Johnson edging to whip through the election turnstiles the lock, stock and barrel of offices Democrats are hoping to garner.

If Mr. Johnson can "sweep" the state, Pennsylvania Democrats then indeed stand a very good chance of literally taking over — a possibility that now looms large.

The Allen-Scott Report

Kennedy Report

WASHINGTON — There is a sharp difference of opinion in the special commission investigating the assassination of President Kennedy over its long - rumored report—which is still far from completed.

Chief Justice Earl Warren, chairman, is pressing vigorously for publishing findings early next month.

That is also favored by Allan Dulles, former head of the Central Intelligence Agency, and Representative Gerald Ford, R-Mich.

President Johnson is reportedly urging the issuing of the commission's report before the convening of the Democratic National Convention the last week in August. There is no authoritative explanation for his attitude.

But other commission members are balking.

"They contend there are still serious gaps in the testimony and evidence, and maintain the inquiry must be continued in an effort to obtain the missing information."

Senator John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., is particularly stressing this.

The quite - mannered but firmly decisive veteran of General Patton's famed Third

Army is bluntly asking, "Why the rush? The whole world will pore over our report and nothing must be left undone to get at the bottom of every aspect of this still inexplicable tragedy. I see no valid reason for hurrying to windup. I know of no deadline we must meet."

Senator Richard Russell, D-Ga., feels much the same way.

Chairman of the powerful Armed Services Committee and leader of the Southern bloc during the historic 10-week Senate battle over the new civil rights law, Russell was able to attend few sessions of the commission.

But he has made it very clear he will carefully study every page of testimony and will agree to no findings until he has done that.

Some of the testimony has not yet even been transcribed.

Further Grilling — Senator Cooper wants Mrs. Marian Oswald, 22-year-old widow of the killer, to be recalled (the third time) for a detailed questioning.

It is Cooper's view Mrs. Oswald should be able to shed more light on her husband's activities and contacts in the U. S. and Russia than she has so far. He is frankly unsatisfied with what she has told the probes.

In her first appearance, Mrs. Oswald stated she knew nothing about her husband's outside life. But under questioning the second time, she admitted being aware that he had attended "meetings."

"What kind of meetings?" "Political meetings," she replied.

That was all the probes were able to get from her. Mrs. Oswald insisted she knew nothing about these "meetings," their nature, purpose or location. She maintained all she knew was that Oswald had said he had been to "meetings."

Another witness Cooper is insisting should be brought before the commission is Llewellyn Thompson, ambassador to Russia during the three years Oswald lived there as an avowed defector.

Now special Soviet bloc consultant to the White House and Secretary Rusk, Thompson, for some unexplained reason, has avoided testifying. There appears to be some reluctance either on his or the State Department's part. Members of the commission have been told Thompson knows nothing about Oswald.

That doesn't satisfy Senators Cooper and Russell. They see no reason why an exception should be made of the career diplomat and are pressing that he be summoned for interrogation.

Cooper wants to know particularly why State Department authorities ruled Oswald had not renounced his citizenship after he had gone to the Moscow embassy and formally disavowed it. There has been no explanation from the department on this.

The official who made the ruling is no longer in the department.

Dangerous Gap — Certain to be included in the commission's findings is sharp criticism of security measures for the protection of the President.

The still-secret testimony reveals startling gaps and deficiencies in the safe-guarding system.

Since the Dallas slaying a number of "tightening up" steps have been taken. The presidential guard has been expanded and strengthened in important aspects — that were not in effect at the time of the assassination.

Dennis had perfected a device that produced a sound like thunder and used it in "Appius and Virginia."

A few weeks after his performance of "Macheth," a realistic-sounding clatter of thunder from backstage caused him to exclaim: "My God, see how the villains use me! They will not let my play run, yet they steal my thunder!"

From Dennis' reaction came the expression "to steal one's thunder," to adopt someone's methods.

Dear Abby

Stop Energy Waste: Time For Change

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband's "baby" sister (some baby, she is 42) is getting married again for the fourth time. She lost one husband at Pearl Harbor and two in the divorce court.

She is planning a big church wedding. Her excuse is that Calvin (her fiance) has never been married before and HE deserves a lovely wedding.

The truth of the matter is that all of hers were hurry-up affairs and SHE wants a lovely wedding. Besides, Calvin's people resent his marrying a divorcee and I hear they aren't even coming to the wedding.

And you can just imagine how all our relatives feel about having to buy a FOURTH wedding present for the same person! How can I stop her? She doesn't listen to anybody.

DEAR SECOND: "Overweight" is not hereditary. But the tendency toward obesity is. Perhaps a thyroid deficiency or disorder runs in your girl's family...If you are considering marriage, you have a right to ask.

DEAR ABBY: I am a single woman keeping company with a man who is separated from his wife, but not divorced. He has three children to support so he never has any money.

He seldom takes me out, but he goes into a rage if I accept an invitation to go out with someone else. Don't you think he is a selfish person to take that attitude?

I enjoy going places, but never make plans that will interfere with our date nights. I see no marriage in our future and, therefore, don't see why I should give up all my friends. Am I wrong?

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: You are not wrong. The man is selfish, but you are foolish to continue seeing him, feeling the way you do. Lose him.

CONFIDENTIAL TO LAURA AND TEX: Your boyfriend should use the rocks in his head to fill in the holes in yours! Phony names and phony ages would only make for a phony marriage.

SECOND THOUGHTS

Speaking Of Your Health:

I'd Like To Know The Answer

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I have just learned that I am pregnant, after having been married for three years. I must confess that I am afraid of the whole idea of giving birth. I am also afraid that I will lose my physical attractiveness with pregnancy.

Mrs. A. S. L., Minnesota

Dear Mrs. L.: If you are one of the fortunate women who are looking forward to having a baby this year, you should find great comfort in the heartening statistics on childbirth today.

The magnificent advances of medical science have made childbirth a safe and simple process. There is no reason to spit this joyous experience with unrealistic fears about your physical well-being or attractiveness.

Expectant mothers need not be concerned that their altered appearance will make them less appealing to their husbands. It is an established fact that when the marriage is a happy union, the prospect of parenthood actually enriches the love and devotion of husband and wife.

Whenever I get upset, I begin to cry. I feel ridiculous, and am even more embarrassed because I have to keep blowing my nose. Is this normal?

Miss E. G. B., Florida

Dear Miss B.: Crying is perfectly normal and understandable under severe stress.

Tears are also produced as a protective mechanism. When the eyes are irritated or contain a foreign body, tears serve to cleanse and soothe.

A limited quantity of tears is always being secreted by the lacrimal (tear) glands to lubricate the eyes, and is then drained off through a tiny hole (punctum lacrimalis) in the lower lid, which connects with a tube (nasolacrimal duct) into the nose.

When a profusion of tears is produced by emotional upset or irritation of the eyes, some of the excess spills over the lower lid onto the cheek. The rest flows into the nose through the nasolacrimal duct, and out of the nose through the nostrils.

Crying is a perfectly normal body process which should not be a source of embarrassment. It is nature's way of protecting the eyes and providing a release for emotional tensions.

My children swim in a stream near our house. How can I find out if the water is pure or polluted?

Mr. H. J., Massachusetts

Dear Mr. J.: Even when pollution is only vaguely suspected, it is a wise precaution to have the water tested. Your local county or city Board of Health can readily determine the purity of the water by chemical and bacteriological study.

Inconsiderate Scranton

By George Dixon

SAN FRANCISCO—as this frail little crippled guy passed the mouth of the dark alley I snuck up behind him and kicked away his crutches. I gouged him in the eyes, kneed him, kicked him in the teeth — and then pleaded with him for mercy.

When the downfallen upstart had the bad taste to protest, I reminded him it was in the true spirit of the Republican National Convention.

It is painful to have to report this, but Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania is guilty of dirty tactics. He keeps leaving one of his ears sticking out to be bitten off.

Sometimes the inconsiderate Scranton screams so dismally that he drowns out Senator Barry Goldwater's pleas for solidarity. Almost every hour on the half hour Senator Goldwater has to take a recess from pistol-whipping Scranton because the eleven-and-a-half hour entry for the GOP presidential nomination howls so disharmoniously he can't hear Goldwater's reasoned appeal for unity.

It was just as bad with the Johnny-come-lately I tried to pry. He had the unmitigated gall to complain, I told him, right to his flattened nose: "You certainly got your nerve. Do you mean to be there and tell me you are going counter to the great spirit of insincerity that dominates this convention?"

I think he would have had the temerity to answer if I hadn't stuck my foot in his mouth. I don't know what there can be about this convention that makes everybody so insincere. It even obtains in the press room. Washington correspondents who wouldn't be caught dead fraternizing in Washington become loud clumps. They fold each other in wild embrace, thump each other on the back, and go out for a drink without even taking a vial of cyanide along.

Everything is so beautifully phony that it makes this unsavory conclave rank with the great unifications of history. It is in the time-tested tradition of Can Can unifying Abel, or the inspiring occasion on which Brutus established party harmony with Caesar.

In the latter classic confrontation, Caesar is quoted by sloppy and inaccurate politicians as having uttered the neatly phrased: "Et Tu, Brute?" Fuller research has revealed that what he actually said was: "Let's have unity."

This, our more advanced historians now agree, prompted Caesar to ask: "Unity, who?" Caesar started to reply: "Unity Mitford, the English dame who admired Hitler—", but unification set in too soon.

In addition to fomenting harmony, this convention is inspiring political writers not to write. Happen onto one anywhere, even in such an unlikely spot as sitting before a typewriter, and the first thing he'll groan at you jovially is: "What is there to write about?"

They keep telling each other there's nothing here to write about. This is palpably ridiculous. The region is redolent of things to write about. Why, just as the instructed, uninstructed, and destructed delegates began pouring into San Francisco, a deer started to cross the Golden Gate Bridge from Sausalito. This precipitated an unfounded rumor that it was on its way to the Cow Palace to found a third party. Imagine! A deer at the Cow Palace!

The truth is obvious. It was a male deer, and it was racing at top speed because it had gotten word that San Francisco, during the GOP convention, was the place for a fast buck.

There are all sorts of other gripping things to write about. Senator Goldwater was having a press conference the other day. Naturally he was talking into a battery of microphones. His voice, as it came over the loudspeakers, cut out, and the sound track of a western movie cut in. For a few moments it sounded as if the senator from Arizona intended to head off the governor of Pennsylvania at Eagle Pass.

Unfortunately, the audio cut back to Senator Goldwater and we'll probably never know if the good guy came out all right.

Talking about movies, we came out here on the plane with Mrs. Goldwater. Her husband was to be on the same plane, but he cancelled at the last moment. There was a report, unconfirmed, that he did this because he'd already seen the movie.

Off The Record:

Too Much Planning?

A California juvenile judge has stirred up controversy on statements published in Together magazine. Judge Robert Gardner dug into the barnets nest when he advocated "Let kids manage their own affairs."

The west coast jurist had a few pretty good quotes, or as he prefers—advice—for dealing with children's and youths' problems.

He maintains there is too much emphasis on organization and says that adults often are denying children the opportunity to develop character.

Judge Gardner, considered an expert in juvenile situations uses his own background as the basis for his information. He claims he became so involved in organizations and outside affairs that he found himself almost a stranger to his own family.

However, when he broke these outside ties he discovered that his own children were overloaded with activities planned for them.

"Should every moment of a child's life be planned?" Judge Gardner challenges parents. He also questions the role of the church, maintaining religious groups are overdoing their organizing for children and teenagers.

Judge Gardner threw a bombshell when he pointed out that it doesn't hurt a girl or a boy to have lots of free time. He believes it wouldn't hurt for youth to have idle time, for dream, ever to be bored occasionally.

Like many oldsters or those who can look back a few years, the judge remembered that many of us were in the habit of doing many things for ourselves. It was spontaneous and informal, he points out.

Judge Gardner feels "Adult interference would have detracted from the pleasures involved in those relationships."

He has confidence in the average young person's ability to adjust satisfactorily to any type of situation—provided the person has had good home training.

Let young people stand on their own feet, he counsels, but "if parents are always attending a meeting" the youth cannot get the training.

Put on their own, young people have to think for themselves and plan for themselves, he notes. "Some day your child will have to face up to the awful loneliness of a serious decision—all by himself."

"His best preparation for that is to make a lot of small, independent decisions in the meantime. Even if they are not all right, he will learn by experience," he stressed.

The judge will meet a few barriers in his somewhat explosive article on "Let's Leave the Kids Alone." But he has some strong points that doesn't take argumentation to see through.

Pleasant Valley School Jointure Evaluated

BRODHEADSVILLE — The Board of Education and the school's administration were advised to study the possibility of starting an intra-mural physical education program.

This was one of the recommendations contained in the report of the Committee of Middle States Assn. of Colleges and Secondary Schools. The report was reviewed by the Pleasant Valley School Committee at a recent meeting. Pleasant Valley seeks membership in the Middle States Assn.

The report suggested "1. A further study be undertaken by both the Board of Education and Administration to correct the deficiency of the lack of an Intra-mural Program."

2. The Board of Education find a satisfactory solution for student bus transportation for all existing and recommended after-school activities."

John Mills, supervising principal of Pleasant Valley School, said it would be very difficult to start an intra-mural program just now. "The cost of transportation would be almost double what it is now if we had to run special busses after school for participants of an intra-mural program" he said.

It was also recommended: In the hiring of any future English teachers, consideration be given to English majors. Mills said that this has always been done.

A study be made of the value and satisfaction of the seventh and eighth grade foreign language program, as now being presented, in the total program.

Separate Boys, Girls
A study be made concerning the advisability and advantages in separating boys and girls in their health classes. Mills stated that the classes are separated for any controversial subjects and can see no reason for separating the other classes.

—Earth Space Science classes be added to the science program. Wally Butz, Pleasant Valley principal, said he will ask the hiring committee to seek a teacher for such a program.

—The principal be relieved from all scheduled classes thus enabling him to devote more of his time to supervision and faculty leadership. Butz said this will be done this coming school year.

—The administration be given more complete authority by the board of education in the hiring of teacher personnel. Mills said that hiring is now done by the School Board Hiring Committee, and that the committee does a fine job.

The school board adopt a written policy on board policies and procedures. Mills said such a written policy already exists. Consideration be given to offering a summer program of driver education. A study of the heating system be made. There is no heat in the conference and storage rooms. During the winter it was necessary to close the library because of the lack of heat in the main reading room.

The report then commended: —The English department staff for their enthusiasm and interest in their students, and concern for the individual.

—The Board of Education and the staff for the variety of foreign languages offered and for the expressed intention to provide a three-year sequence of a modern foreign language.

—The school for its wide offerings in mathematics in view of the size of the student population.

—The school on the student-teacher relationships which reflect the philosophy that every teacher is a part of the counseling process.

Another phase of the report requested the administration to start a program of special education for children in the age range of 12 to 17 years with the I.Q. range of 52 to 79 and the reading ability range of Primer to fifth grade. It was recommended that the school review the various practices in Pennsylvania for graduation of these children.

The most recommended current practice is to graduate those completing the special courses by having them take part in all senior class activities and commencement and giving them a differentiated diploma.

Improvement Of School
The primary purpose of the evaluation was given as "the improvement of the individual high school in the service it is rendering to the youth of this community."

The reviewing committee then praised the school, saying "the school philosophy and objectives developed by the faculty was clearly organized, reasonably sound and workable. It appears that the staff recognized the educational needs of the youth in the community and that the school was meeting those needs at least moderately."

$200 Damages To Youth's Car

BELVIDERE — A Wilkes-Barre youth's car received $200 damages Monday at 2:15 p.m. when he skidded off Berry Hollow Rd. three miles west of Belvidere, Easton state police reported.

Uninjured was Raymond Whitt, 19, of Wilkes-Barre. Police said his auto slipped on the wet road and struck a guard rail.

Ruby-Oswald Link Denied

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—A lawyer for Jack Ruby said Sunday that Ruby "emphatically denied" in a lie detector test Saturday that there was any connection between him and Lee Harvey Oswald.

Defense attorney Joe Tonzillo, in confirming that the polygraph test was given Ruby in the Dallas County Jail, said Ruby had requested the test of U.S. Chief Justice Earl Warren.

Playhouse To Feature Film Stars

MOUNTAINHOME — Tom Ewell and Sheree North will team-up as they did in the film "The Lieutenant Wore Skirts", to head the cast of the comedy, "Thursday Is A Good Night", opening Monday night, July 27, at the Pocono Playhouse.

This latest comedy romp by Abe Elmhorn and Donald Segali deals with a "sportsman" who likes to accommodate certain members of society who take financial chances on certain sporting events... some might call him a "bookie". To his friends he was just a nice quiet man.

On the evening on which this event takes place (his birthday) he receives an unexpected present. The gift is a luminous... lucious female (Sheree North). Complications naturally develop and to add to the confusion his nice quiet apartment is invaded by an assortment of Russian Spies. A trouble-making friend is introduced.

FBI In Act
The FBI also gets into the act and to complicate things further, there is a nosy lady neighbor and of course, following the comedy routine of the Marx Brothers, a Chinese waiter.

It is around Tom Ewell that all the "trouble" revolves. Though Ewell had been a promising young actor for a number of years, it was his role in "The Seven Year Itch" that launched him into stardom. "A Tunnel of Love" and "A Thunder Carnival" followed bringing him further critical acclaim. He has been delighting national audiences as the star of "Take Her She's Mine". In the film world he was starred recently in "Tender Was The Night" and "State Fair".

Directed By Judith Abbott
Under the direction of George Abbott's talented daughter, Judith Abbott, the cast will include Jay Barney who won a name for himself as Tallulah Bankhead's leading man in "Eugenia". He is currently on the nation's movie screens in "Blueprint For Robbery" and the role of John The Baptist in Walt Disney's "The Big Fisherman".

Joseph Rova, who scored a huge personal success as the timid Prince Dauntless in "Once Upon A Mattress" with Carol Burnett will be a featured member of the cast.

The Ewell-Sheree North star team will be at the Pocono Playhouse for one week only. The Playhouse offers two matinees, Wednesday and Saturday with curtain time at 2:40.

Goldwater's Conservative Position On Issues

WASHINGTON (AP)—Following are the views of Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, Republican presidential nominee, on a variety of issues, as expressed in his books, interviews, campaign speeches, statements and other public remarks:

Agriculture

"Most of our farm ills have been the product of government price-fixing," Goldwater said in Redding, Calif., on May 25. He suggested Feb. 12 in Portland, Ore., that the federal government's only involvement with farmers should be in a loan guarantee program similar to that of the Federal Housing Administration, to make money available when it really is needed.

"This is the only place I see now for the federal government to act directly with the farmers," he said. "You'll find that all of the crops that are kept at a high unnatural price are giving way to foreign competition."

At Littleton, N.H., on Feb. 5, he said a federal withdrawal from farm subsidies could be accomplished over a three-to-five-year period.

"The 30 per cent of our agriculture now under the President's support program should be slowly withdrawn from it, so that at the end of a reasonable period of time the law of supply and demand will determine the prices the farmers receive," Goldwater said Oct. 20, 1963, in response to questions submitted by The Associated Press.

Civil Rights

Goldwater, commenting on July 12 on the Republican platform plank on civil rights, declared that as president he would enforce the new law and added:

"I don't think either party should try at this time to go beyond the present bill, which is the law."

Talking of his opposition to the measure on constitutional grounds, Goldwater said "It's up to the Supreme Court to decide whether I was right or wrong."

He said a president promises to uphold all the laws and "if I didn't believe I could do it I'd withdraw from the race right now."

On July 10, Goldwater told the Republican platform committee he would not as president seek repeal of the civil rights law. "No," he said, "that's not in my opinion the duty of a president."

"Even though I voted with the minority I stand with the majority."

"I still feel that two of the titles are unconstitutional, and the Supreme Court will determine that," he said.

Goldwater added: "If I am your president, I will do something about this in more ways than the law."

He said he would use the prestige of the presidency to seek an end to discrimination of all sorts.

"This is fundamentally a matter of the heart," Goldwater said in reply to an Associated Press questionnaire on July 5.

"We now have too much government and too little understanding in these matters; too much mob and too little individual responsibility."

Announcing he would vote against the civil rights bill, Goldwater said in the Senate floor June 18: "I am unalterably opposed to discrimination or segregation on the basis of race, color or creed; not only my words, but more importantly my actions have repeatedly demonstrated the sincerity of my feeling in this regard."

Goldwater said he would reluctantly vote against the bill because the public accommodations and Fair Employment Practices Commission sections "fly in the face of the Constitution and require for their execution the creation of a police state."

"I think I can safely say that I can run on a platform that would contain the civil rights bill that passes Congress," Goldwater said June 7 in Chester, Pa., adding: "I can assure you it won't be the one that is before us now."

In San Diego on May 26, Goldwater said he opposed the public accommodations and fair employment sections of the civil rights bill and "the mainstream of the Republican party in Congress feels either they have to go or to be modified."

"If they'd take Title 7 out altogether and make Title 2 what it was originally meant to be—the traditional right of the states—then I would go for the bill."

"Although frankly," he said, "I think it's like a 53 bill, it's a phoney. There's only one good section, the school integration section, the rest we already have in law."

"As your president," he said May 25 in Oakland, Calif., "I would immediately seek to restore civil order so that our discussion of civil rights could proceed with open hearts and minds."

Explaining a shift in views he made about 18 months earlier after consulting with legal advisers, Goldwater said in a television interview May 24:

"At one time I felt that it was improper for the federal government to intervene in a local school system as far as integration goes."

"I believe now that this is possible, and I believe the machinery is there to do it, and I think the criticism I would aim at the attorney generals we have had is that they haven't used the machinery."

In a campaign position paper issued April 14, Goldwater said: "We must always make a sharp distinction between civil rights guaranteed under the Constitution and those rights of association that are basically moral issues and cannot be resolved by passing unenforceable federal laws."

He said the right to vote, to equal treatment before the law, to hold property and to the protection of contracts are guaranteed by the Constitution.

In San Francisco on March 31, Goldwater said:

"I'll stack my civil rights record with any white man in this country. I've done something about it."

"We never write off votes," he said, "but I look at it in a realistic way. In the large cities the Negro vote has been about 80 per cent Democratic in national elections."

"I think if any Negro read my record he'd find a better friend in me," Goldwater said in Detroit on March 25.

Goldwater said in Stockton, Calif., on March 18: "I don't believe this problem can be solved by law." As president, he said, "I would continue doing what I've been doing as an individual American. I think that moral persuasion and the prestige of a president can do more to solve this problem than law ever can."

"I don't want to see my country destroyed, in a vain attempt to solve a problem that can only be solved in the hearts of men," he said.

At Bristol, N.H., on Feb. 19, he said "I can't vote for the civil rights bill with either one of these sections in it." He was referring to the public accommodations and fair employment practices provisions.

"Now if a state wants to pass either one of these it is their prerogative," he said. "I would resist it in my own state."

Goldwater later was quoted as endorsing in a letter a public accommodations ordinance for his home town of Phoenix.

On Feb. 19 in Hanover, N.H., he said he thinks civil rights can become a reality in the South without legislation. "Where it can be speeded up by federal action would be in the schools," he said.

Goldwater said in Globe, Ariz., on Feb. 14 the public accommodations section "would force you to admit a drunk or a murderer or an insane person into your place of business." He said that the fair employment section of the bill would lead to a quota system of hiring and "you are going to lose your right to select your employees."

In Chicago on Feb. 8 he said "I couldn't get enough of the Negro vote to worry about what I did on any legislation. I regret that."

Cuba

"We must impose, again, an effective economic-military blockade on Cuba. We must enforce our restrictions and levy penalties against shipping which attempts to trade with both the United States and Cuba. We must have an equally effective blockade against the export of agitators and arms from Cuba," Goldwater said July 5.

"A tight blockade around Cuba would heavily undermine Castro's power, put an unacceptable high price on the Soviet aid which is propping up his police state, and enable the people of Cuba themselves—those inside the country, together with an exile army—to live under freedom once more. Immediate U.S. recognition of a Cuban government in exile would be the indispensable first step toward Cuban self-liberation. Such a government could ask for every form of U.S. and Organization of American States support—and ought to receive it."

Goldwater also said the administration is avoiding the intent of Congress that a foreign aid ban "should be used to choke off free world trade with Cuba."

"People realize that sooner or later, whether we like it or not, we're going to have to get rid of communism in Cuba or we're going to have a Communist Latin America," he said in San Diego March 20.

In Lakeport, Calif., on March 18, Goldwater said action must be taken against Castro in concert with other Hemisphere nations and "if we don't do this now, we ourselves will some day have to repeat what we did in 1898."

When Castro halted the water supply to the Guantanamo Bay Naval Base, Goldwater, campaigning in Kingston, N.H., said:

"I hope the President has the courage to tell Castro turn that water back on or we're going to turn it on ourselves . . . turn it on or the Marines will turn it on for you and keep it on."

He repeated that position in Los Angeles on May 27. "Had I been the commanding officer of the base, I probably would have taken that action," he said. "I believe in protecting the American people first and then we'll worry about what happens afterwards."

He said in Washington on Feb. 8 he would favor the use of U.S. warships to halt shipments into Cuba—including such things as British buses and French products.

"Our allies are leaving us to do business with Cuba," he said. "The blockade that we have had has not been successful because they are still in business down there."

But Goldwater said during his New Hampshire campaign that the United States must take much of the blame. He pointed to the example set by the U.S. wheat deal with the Soviet Union.

Defense

"Basic strategic concepts for the security of this nation demanded drastic reassessment with the advent of the age of space and missiles. This nation cannot survive, in this new era without mastery of the uses of space and heavy reliance on missile systems as against a mixed force—missiles, manned aircraft, and naval vessels of all types," Goldwater said July 5.

"I have raised, and will continue to raise until all the facts are in, fundamental questions about the reliability of our intercontinental ballistic missiles. It is not a question of theoretical accuracy. The fact is that not one of our advanced ICBMs has ever been subjected to a full test—of all component systems, including warheads—under simulated battle conditions."

In Dallas, June 16, Goldwater said the nation is being fed "packets of lies" by the Pentagon about U.S. missile strength. "Whether we like it or not, we are in second place," he said, "and I defy the czar of the Pentagon to dispute that statement."

Reasserting a long-standing charge, Goldwater said at Chester, Pa., on June 7 that "unless the United States develops a new manned bomber, 1970 'could find us with between 30 and 40 per cent of our nuclear strike force gone.'"

In his April 14 position paper, Goldwater said the nuclear test ban treaty—which he opposed—"means that we cannot properly test even our present missile systems."

He also complained that the United States has "no present programs looking toward primarily military applications for the environment of space." Goldwater said there is every reason to believe the Soviet Union has such programs.

Championing the manned bomber, he said:

"If we place over-reliance on missiles rather than a mixed arsenal, our only reactions to unacceptable Soviet probes would have to be submission—or all-out nuclear war. I want to avoid the necessity of nuclear war."

In defense matters you are inflexible if you have only one major weapons system at your disposal," he said.

He also lodged again a long-standing complaint against Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara:

"This administration has depended too heavily and too exclusively on untrained civilian officials, while tending to downgrade the advice of skilled and dedicated career members of the military."

In Detroit on March 23, he accused McNamara of "ledger sheet leadership leading to a deterrent gap in the next decade."

In Oceanside, Calif., on March 20, Goldwater protested a U.S.-Soviet bomber burning deal to destroy B47s if the Russians burned badgers bombers.

"We'll still have our missiles and they'll have theirs," he said, "and I think theirs are a little more reliable than ours."

"I make the flat charge that Secretary McNamara and the State Department are engaged in unilateral disarmament at the expense of peace and at the expense of freedom."

McNamara, Goldwater said Jan. 23, "has probably saved the country more money and cost it more morale than any secretary in the past."

The senator said in Franklin, N.H., on Feb. 20 if he were president he would fire McNamara.

Economy

In a position paper issued late in June, Goldwater said he would act to hold down federal spending "by setting priorities—clearly stated and clearly understood."

To hold down the federal budget, he said, local governments should be taking on more responsibilities in meeting clearly established needs.

"Urban renewal and welfare services are two prime examples of what I mean," he said. "At the opposite end of the scale—of necessary federal responsibilities—are the needs of defense and national security."

In Dallas, Tex., June 15, Goldwater said "If we continue to enlarge the power and the purse of the federal government at the rate we are now enlarging both, we will have to institute a new economic system—we will have to adopt a form of U.S. socialism within the next several presidential terms, and maybe sooner than that."

President Johnson, he said in Monterey, Calif., May 26, has "absolutely no regard for the value of the dollar. We are headed for about a $10-billion deficit."

"As your president I would devote more of my interest and time to seeing to it that the American dollar retains its value," he said.

Goldwater said in his April 14 position paper "What we desperately need are some clearly stated and clearly understood priorities for national programs. 'We cannot do everything at once and there are many things the federal government shouldn't be doing at all,' he said.

"The budget can be balanced," he said in Chico, Calif., March 17, "and I'm convinced that I can balance it without damage to any services in this country."

"I feel the cost of living increase has wiped out a large part of the benefits to be gained from the tax cut that was passed just a few weeks ago," he said in Paradise, Calif., on March 17.

Goldwater said in Wilton, N.H., March 5 the United States is doing its best to encourage freer trade but "The trouble is the rest of the world isn't helping us. It might get to the point where we have to lower quotas."

Education

Goldwater said in his April 14 campaign position paper "I have consistently opposed federal aid to elementary and secondary schools as unnecessary and unwise. Nevertheless, I have advocated that any such aid—should Congress ever authorize it—must in fairness be made available to all schools, public, private or parochial."

Goldwater said he favors tax credits for school taxes and for taxpayers supporting college students.

Extremism

Goldwater said in Sacramento, Calif., on March 17 people who make extremism a campaign issue have "no business running for the presidency."

His remarks were aimed at New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, his rival in the California primary. Goldwater called the issue one of "small minds" that disregard the real problems facing the nation.

"All I can say is that I will take the support of any American who is not a Communist, who has not advocated the violent overthrow of our government, and the Birch Society, like the Americans for Democratic Action, extremists on the left, are operating, in my opinion, under their constitutional rights," he said in San Francisco on March 15.

"I seek the support of no extremist groups of the left or right," he said in Fresno, Calif., March 14.

Foreign Aid

"I am for a sound foreign aid program," he said in a June reissue of his campaign position declaration. He endorsed military aid and technical assistance.

"Soundly based economic loans, granted according to clear criteria, can also be a good investment for free world security," he said.

"Foreign military aid and technical assistance are valuable adjuncts to our over-all program of mutual security—the former to protect our friends against Communist aggression, and the latter to help free nations free themselves," Goldwater said in an April 14 position paper. "But, as it is presently conceived and administered, foreign economic aid raises serious questions."

"Our aid will be truly effective only if these we help have the desire and the will to become self-supporting," he said.

Goldwater also said "U.S. assistance to Communist-ruled nations has not helped foster any significant independence from Soviet domination."

"I don't think with the temper of Congress being what it is that the life of foreign economic aid has much longer to go," he said in Globe, Ariz., on Feb. 14.

"Instead of pumping dollars into these countries I would pump in education and know-how. That's what a foreign aid program should be," he said Feb. 10 in Thatcher, Ariz.

Foreign Policy

Goldwater said in Dallas on June 15 lack of foreign policy and a "weak-kneed" foreign policy "are leading us into World War III as surely as we were led into World War II by the same kind of stupid ineptitude."

In Los Angeles on May 27 he said: "The greatest way we can help the free world would be to help the people behind the Iron Curtain assert their free will. Before I'm accused of being a warmonger, I say this can be done without going to war."

In Lebanon, N.H., on Feb. 19, he said a firm foreign policy is the best insurance of peace. "We're not afraid to risk war because we know by doing this the chances are that we won't have to go to war," he said.

"I don't think Johnson understands the foreign policy of Eisenhower," he said in San Francisco on Feb. 12. "What his foreign policy is doing is isolating the United States by bringing back troops, by bringing back bombers. We are disarming unilaterally and this is certainly not in keeping with Eisenhower foreign policy."

In Minneapolis on Feb. 3, Goldwater said, "If you get a Republican president you can get foreign policy changes awfully fast. In my case it would be changed to a policy not of belligerence but the same policy as under Eisenhower and Dulles of brinkmanship and the proper use of our strength."

General Election

Asked whether he can beat President Johnson, Goldwater replied at a Florida caucus at the Republican National Convention on July 12: "I wouldn't be in this thing if I thought I was going to get beaten."

On June 30, an interviewer for the German magazine Der Spiegel had asked him, "Do you think you would stand a chance to win over President Johnson in November?"

"If you ask that question as of now, and I always like to answer political questions as of now, no, I don't think any Republican can as of now."

"I don't think I'd be rash enough to say I could beat Johnson in the South as of now, but come Election Day there's going to be another horse race, I believe."

Income Tax

In his April position paper, Goldwater said, "I share the opinion with virtually every other American that our present tax burden is onerous, often inequitable and in need of reform. But abolition is the answer to nothing."

"As president, one of my first priority tasks would be to secure a complete overhaul of our present federal tax code, so that we might quickly achieve the reforms which are so long overdue."

"Personally, I don't believe in a graduated tax. I know we can't drop it," he said in Hillsboro, N.H., on Jan. 22. "A graduated tax is a penalty on ambition."

In Concord, N.H., on Jan. 7, Goldwater said an overhaul of the tax code would make possible a rate reduction of 10 to 12 per cent in personal income taxes and about 30 per cent in corporate taxes.

On Dec. 2, 1961, Goldwater said, "Get rid of the whole graduated income tax."

In his book "The Conscience of a Conservative," published in 1960, he said, "Government has a right to claim an equal percentage of each man's wealth—and no more."

Labor

In his campaign position paper on labor, Goldwater said, "To achieve industrial peace, we must maintain a balance among the rights of employees, employers and the public. Our concern for the individual employee must always be paramount."

"He should be protected from abuse and exploitation—whether such abuse of exploitation stems from actions of his employer or from the actions of union officials," he said.

In Hillsboro, N.H., on Jan. 22, Goldwater said of right-to-work legislation: "Personally, I think very favorably of it. I don't think any American should be forced to belong to anything in order to make a living."

"Why," he asked in Kingston, N.C., on Jan. 17, "should a man be forced to join a labor union because 50.1 per cent of his fellow workers say they want to join . . ."

"I wonder if industrywide bargaining shouldn't be looked into," he added.

Medical Care For The Aged

Goldwater opposes medical care for the aged financed through Social Security. He says it would mean socialized medicine, and would push the Social Security tax so high as to endanger that system.

"The Social Security system is not the way to do it effectively. One sure way to wreck the Social Security system would be to saddle it with unnecessary new burdens, such as Medicare. We penalize every aged citizen if we thus bankrupt the system which protects them," he told The Associated Press on July 5.

He said on Oct. 20, 1963: "Health care for the aged is already provided for by the Kerr-Mills bill and by private programs. In this whole field of health, I would favor tax credit or tax deduction for any monies paid for the purpose of taking care of the aged."

Goldwater who voted against the Kerr-Mills bill, now says he thinks this is as far as the government should go.

NATO

Goldwater, in his campaign position statement, said: "The greatest force for freedom in the world today is the powerful Atlantic Alliance, the NATO community. But the present administration has allowed NATO to drift into disarray—to the point where it is split, leaderless and badly lagging in its goal of building and maintaining a solid barrier against communism."

He opposed the multilateral force concept as a gimmick to give the appearance of NATO unity, and said it would not be workable.

He proposed these steps:

1. Consultation with NATO allies prior to major policy decisions affecting their security.

2. A pledge not to engage in bilateral negotiations with the Soviet Union on matters involving security or interests of NATO nations.

3. "The sharing of nuclear secrets within the framework of existing law."

4. "The training of all NATO forces stationed in Europe, regardless of nationality, in the use of battlefield or tactical nuclear weapons. I suggest that the supreme commander of NATO, who is an American officer and probably always will be, have direct command over a NATO nuclear force, trained, ready and equipped, on European soil."

Goldwater says he was misquoted as saying in Hartford, Conn., on Oct. 24, 1963 that he wants NATO commanders—plural—to have authority over tactical nuclear weapons.

He said he was talking about the supreme commander.

In San Francisco on July 13, Goldwater told Florida delegates to the GOP Convention:

"I've suggested that we never remove this responsibility from the President but that the commander of NATO have a little more leeway in the selection of weapons and the timeliness of weapons."

At Fayetteville, N.C., on Jan. 18, Goldwater said:

"We can't expect NATO to fight a modern war with World War II weapons, and that is what we're asking them to do. If we have to wait for a consultation at the White House before retreating with nuclear tactical weapons, I'm afraid we would lose in a ground attack over there."

"... The greatest bulwark ever erected by free nations, the NATO community." (From acceptance speech July 16).

Nuclear Test Ban

"I voted against the treaty because it, in effect, freezes the Soviet Union in a superior position to the United States as regards the uses and effects of high-yield weapons while leaving open the possibility of their catching up to us in the field of tactical nuclear weapons, since these weapons can be perfected by underground tests which are not prohibited by the treaty," Goldwater said in his campaign position paper.

"If I were president, I can conceive of situations in which it would be necessary to abrogate the treaty," he said. "If I found it detrimental to the interests of the United States to continue to adhere to the treaty, I would use the treaty's own escape clause to release us from its provisions."

"I also feel there are important areas of amendment which should be sought immediately, particularly in the area of peaceful use of nuclear weapons," he said.

Social Security

"I favor a sound Social Security system and I want to see it strengthened. I want to see every participant receive all the benefits this system provides. And I want these benefits to be paid in sound 100-cent dollars. Protecting the value of the benefits is a basic necessity," he said July 5.

In his position paper earlier, he said:

"We will not preserve the Social Security system if we saddle it with unnecessary new burdens, such as Medicare. We penalize every aged citizen if we thus bankrupt the system which protects them."

"Nor is the public interest served by those who label every sincere proposal to correct and perfect the Social Security system as an attack on its basic principles."

"No president could end Social Security," he said in Monterey, Calif., on May 25. "I can't imagine the Congress in its most wild and stupid moments voting to end Social Security."

In Concord, N.H., on Jan. 7, Goldwater said:

"I would like to suggest one change, that Social Security be voluntary, that if a person can provide better for himself, let him do it. But if he prefers the government to do it, let him. I wouldn't change it, but I believe he should be able to indicate his choice if he wants it. Or if he doesn't, let him say no to his employer. I think we will come to something like that in 1970."

Never Peers Backward

76-Year-Old Artist Looks To Tomorrow

By Charles McNett
Daily Record Reporter
EAST STROUDSBURG — "I like anything that's new and coming. I like to look forward to tomorrow, not backward," said Mrs. Agnes Dyer, 76, at her artist's studio off Posten Rd. near Brushy Mountain recently.

Mrs. Dyer, who is well known in Pocono art circles, has an exhibit of paintings at East Stroudsburg State College's new dormitory, Laurel Hall. She has also shown her paintings at many art shows, and in San Antonio, Tex., her home town.

She described her paintings as abstract, which she called "not breaking rules, but going beyond them."

She left San Antonio in her youth to study at the Art Students League in New York City. Marriage to Harry W. Dyer, an architect from Maine, and the birth of three daughters cut short her career as an artist.

About five years ago, Mrs. Dyer returned to her studies at the league, and began painting again.

Permanent Resident

Now a permanent resident at the farm near East Stroudsburg where she and her husband used to summer, Mrs. Dyer teaches art to local people on Wednesday mornings.

"Actually," she said, "you can't teach art; they do art with me. I have no rules for art, it's just an expression." Most of her students "do" realistic painting, at which she is very adept.

However, she prefers to work

69th Division Plans Reunion

WASHINGTON — The largest number of ex-G.I.'s of the Fighting 69th Infantry Division of World War II will assemble at the 17th Reunion in Washington, D. C., Aug. 14, 15 and 16. Former 69ers from all parts of the U. S. will be on hand.

The Fighting 69th made history in 1945 when they raced across Germany and linked up with the Russian 58th Guard Division to split the German Army. A trip to Germany is scheduled for July 1965 to once again meet with the Russians and re-enact the famous meeting of 20 years ago.

The highlight of the reunion in Washington will be the presentation of a bronze plaque at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier Museum at the Arlington Cemetery, Aug. 15.

Former members of the Fighting 69th Infantry Division are urged to write Loar L. Quickle, The Princeton University Store, Princeton, N.J., for details.

Tax Deadline For Employers

STROUDSBURG — Philadelphia area employers have an important tax deadline on July 31, 1964. Kenneth O. Hook, District Director of Internal Revenue Service, reminded all employers that this is the due date for reporting and paying income tax withheld and social security taxes for the calendar quarter ending June 30, 1964.

Employers should use Form 941 to report their tax liability for this period, Hook said. It should be mailed with depositary receipts and full payment of taxes due to 401 N. Broad Street, Philadelphia, Pa. 19108.

Hook pointed out that taxpayers who made timely deposits in the Federal Reserve Banks, or local authorized banks, of taxes due have an additional 10 days after July 31, 1964, to file their returns.

Circular E, "Employer's Tax Guide," which furnishes more detailed information on this subject, is available upon request from the Internal Revenue Service office, Stroudsburg.

Between Us —

I first met the Finellis on a Fourth of July picnic at Terra-cina, a fishing village on the Italian shore of the Tyrrhenian Sea, within sight of the island where Circe lured the sailors of Aeneas.

But they're just as much fun on the banks of the Delaware overlooking the some-what less effective stream from Karaman. Less effective because it's hard to be beguiling while rowing or paddling if you've never done it before. In fact, some of the canoeists look as if they were somewhat gingerly stirring cake batter.

Which doesn't have anything to do with the Finellis, except they were enjoying the spectacle, too. And it was at the course of our river-sitting that the talk turned to political campaign issues and how much of it would be in the realm of morals vs rising crime rates.

Very cultural, really, since Alex is now special assistant to the Assistant Secretary of State for Educational and Cultural Affairs in Washington and so in charge of all these foreign and domestic exchange programs. But:

There are, it seems, as many solutions as there are people who worry about it. To one person, since the crimes are seldom isolated acts of violence but the result of groups or gangs, the trend to increasing proximity of people in city and suburb breeds mischief.

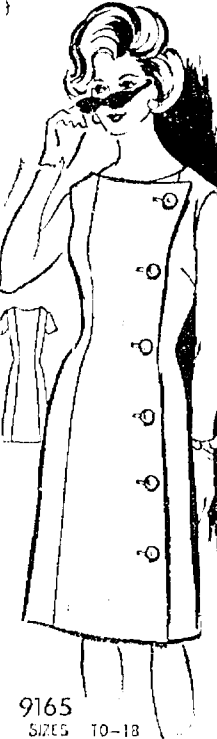

Another placed the blame on fathers who have abdicated their responsibility of making family decisions and enforcing them. Still another on the intellectual approach to morals where sin is never absolute but relative to the time, the place and local customs.

Then of course, there is the disappearance of the family chores and the fact that children are no longer economic assets but economic liabilities with no sense of participation or responsibility.

You're sure we'd have settled the whole thing once and for all, except that the breeze died down and the flies fortunately missing most of the summer, started to bite.

The heat wave, if it has done nothing else, seems to have revived the art of conversation. When it's too hot to sit inside watching television, too hot to mow lawns or clean cottages, the least colorful thing you can do is exchange ideas. And if some of the ideas turn out half-baked, it's not the fault of the heat but the humidity.

Miss Linda Lee Chestnut Bride Of Daniel Woehrle

Pocono Lake — Miss Linda Lee Chestnut, daughter of Mrs. Harry Chestnut and the late Mr. Chestnut of Blakeslee, was married in the Pocono Lake Methodist Church to Daniel Charles Woehrle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Woehrle of Pocono Pines.

Rev. Gerald Crossley and Rev. Kenneth Gay officiated at the 3 p.m. ceremony on June 20.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Russell Knorr, wore a floor-length gown of silk organza featuring a natural waistline, a Sabrina neck, long sleeves and a bodice appliqued with lace. The four-tiered fingertip veil of silk illusion fell from a rose of silk organza surrounded by seed pearls and crystal. She carried a cascade bouquet of white rosebuds and carnations on a white ribbon.

Miss Beverly A. Hoch of Wapwallopen was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Elizabeth Henning, Blakeslee; Miss Rose Mary Hoyer, Long Pond; Miss Diane Hilliard of Reeders, all former classmates of the bride. The maid of honor wore a floor-length dress of cherry pink taffeta with a matching picture hat of net with the crown accented by a band of flowers, a large bow and veil. She carried a bouquet of pink rosebuds and white carnations.

The bridesmaids wore blue dresses and headpieces of the same style and carried cascade bouquets of pink and white carnations.

Miss Amelia Woehrle of Tollyhanna and Miss Roberta Knorr of Blakeslee were flower girls. They wore floor-length gowns of yellow silk organza and carried baskets of pink and white roses.

David C. Woehrle of Loring Air Force Base, Maine, was his brother's best man. Ushers were Lawrence Dotter, Blakeslee; Terry Smith, Tollyhanna; and Robert Chestnut, brother of the bride. Blakeslee, Kevin Knorr of Blakeslee, was ring bearer.

The bride's mother wore a pink crepe dress with white accessories and a white orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a dress of beige lace over green satin with green accessories and a white orchid corsage.

The altar vases were filled with white carnations. Mrs. Alberta Yutz was soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Harvey E. Keiper.

Following the ceremony, a reception for 330 guests was held at the Eagles Home in Stroudsburg. Music was furnished by the Pocono Pioneers.

For her going-away outfit, the bride wore a white eyelet suit with white accessories and a corsage of white roses. After a wedding trip through New York State, they are now at home in Blakeslee.

They are both graduates of the Pocono Mountain Joint High School. Mr. Woehrle is serving with the U.S. Navy aboard the USS Forrestal.

lusion fell from a rose of silk organza surrounded by seed pearls and crystal. She carried a cascade bouquet of white rosebuds and carnations on a white ribbon.

Miss Beverly A. Hoch of Wapwallopen was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Elizabeth Henning, Blakeslee; Miss Rose Mary Hoyer, Long Pond; Miss Diane Hilliard of Reeders, all former classmates of the bride. The maid of honor wore a floor-length dress of cherry pink taffeta with a matching picture hat of net with the crown accented by a band of flowers, a large bow and veil. She carried a bouquet of pink rosebuds and white carnations.

The bridesmaids wore blue dresses and headpieces of the same style and carried cascade bouquets of pink and white carnations.

Miss Amelia Woehrle of Tollyhanna and Miss Roberta Knorr of Blakeslee were flower girls. They wore floor-length gowns of yellow silk organza and carried baskets of pink and white roses.

David C. Woehrle of Loring Air Force Base, Maine, was his brother's best man. Ushers were Lawrence Dotter, Blakeslee; Terry Smith, Tollyhanna; and Robert Chestnut, brother of the bride. Blakeslee, Kevin Knorr of Blakeslee, was ring bearer.

The bride's mother wore a pink crepe dress with white accessories and a white orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a dress of beige lace over green satin with green accessories and a white orchid corsage.

The altar vases were filled with white carnations. Mrs. Alberta Yutz was soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Harvey E. Keiper.

Following the ceremony, a reception for 330 guests was held at the Eagles Home in Stroudsburg. Music was furnished by the Pocono Pioneers.

For her going-away outfit, the bride wore a white eyelet suit with white accessories and a corsage of white roses. After a wedding trip through New York State, they are now at home in Blakeslee.

Indoors Or Out, These Marinades Will Add Special Zest To Meats

By Linda Pipher

Daily Record Home Economist — In the introductory chapter of an outdoor cooking cookbook the first statement is that it is the author's belief that the cook should be male. Cooking over charcoal, it goes on to say, is strictly a man's job and if the man would prefer to have his wife do the cooking then he should just skip the whole thing.

To avoid being hen-pecked, he absolutely must do everything himself; however, if she insists, she can peel onions (in the kitchen), pluck birds, and, of course, don't hesitate to let her do the cleanup. Same old story, girls.

This particular book consisted of prize-winning recipes from annual cook-out contests held by an aluminum foil company. And, by golly, after reading it through, I'd be tempted to agree with the author that if you have a husband who can concoct such wonderful sauces and cook meats to perfection over charcoal, do stay out of his way — and encourage him to keep up the good work, like four or five nights a week!

But then, if you're with the average group, it's probably you who is doing the cooking, fire-tending, and serving, not to mention cleanup. And I'm sure you want recipes that are easy to prepare. Have you ever tried swordfish over charcoal? This is just as good done under the broiler if the outdoor urge leaves you.

Marinated Swordfish Steaks
Combine:
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons curry powder
One-third cup salad oil
1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
1 tablespoon cider vinegar
Cut two pounds swordfish steaks into serving-size pieces. Add to marinade and let stand 3 to 4 hours or overnight. When ready to cook, remove fish from marinade. If you are going to charcoal, wrap each steak in a large square of heavy foil; double seal top and ends by folding edges over each other several times. Place on rack over hot coals and cook for 30 minutes, turning after 15 minutes of cooking. Open foil carefully and slide fish onto warmed serving platter.

For inside cooking, cook under a broiler until brown and flaky on both sides (about 15 to 20 minutes) basting with marinade left in the pan. Yields 4 servings.

There are many things you can do with hamburgers over charcoal if you get tired of eating them plain. This recipe gives the Hawaiian touch; it can also be prepared for cooking inside.

Hawaiian Hamburgers
Mix 1 1/2 pounds ground lean chuck with:
2 tablespoons instant minced onion
1/2 teaspoon salt
Shape into 6 patties of equal size. Place in a baking pan. Combine:
1/2 cup soy sauce
1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
1/2 teaspoon ground black pepper
1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
Pour over meat and marinate 30 minutes. Remove from sauce and cook over charcoal to desired doneness or under a broiler, 7 minutes on one side, 4 on the other. Yields 6 servings.

Have you ever tried pork over charcoal? Remember that it must cook longer than other meats; allow 40 minutes per pound. Curry is a good seasoning with pork; try this marinade:

Barbecued Pork Roast
1 1/2 cups cider vinegar
1/2 teaspoon curry powder
1/2 cup salad oil
4 whole cloves
Mix in bowl; pour over loin of pork and let stand in refrigerator 3 to 4 hours, turning several times. Save liquid to brush on meat as it cooks; roast on spit 40 minutes per pound.

If using vegetables for kebob cookery, remember to partially cook them first. Raw potatoes, especially, will not cook in the same time as meat and other vegetables; canned potatoes can be used if desired.

Marinated Kebobs
Combine:
One-third cup fresh lemon juice
One-third cup wine vinegar
1 tablespoon soy sauce
1 teaspoon sugar
1/2 teaspoon ground black pepper
1/2 teaspoon salt
Heat and cool. Trim and discard excess fat from 2 pounds of lamb. Cut into 1 1/2 inch cubes and mix with the marinade sauce. Refrigerate overnight, turning occasionally. To cook, place on skewers. Cook over medium heat 15 to 20 minutes or until done turning frequently to cook uniformly. Yields 6 servings.

Stroud Aux. Plans Share In Carnival

Stroud Twp. — Plans for the annual carnival to be held Aug. 3-8 were the principal items of business discussed at the meeting of the Stroud Twp. Volunteer Fire Co. held at the Fifth St. Municipal Building.

A fish pond will be held for children attending the carnival. Auxiliary members will also operate a refreshment stand at the carnival and will appreciate donations of baked goods.

A schedule was set up, designating certain nights for areas within the township: Monday, Aug. 3, all localities; Tuesday, West Main, Tante Road, RD 2, RD 5, and Southern Stroud; Wednesday, Arlington Heights and Lackawanna Trail; Thursday, Northern Stroud, Anadolink and Brushy Mountain; Friday, Chippierfield Drive, Mount Zion and Twin Hills; Saturday, Fifth St. Baked goods may be delivered to the carnival grounds or will be picked up by any auxiliary member in the various areas.

A donation of $100 was made to the Marshalls Creek Disaster Fund.

No business meeting will be held in August. A picnic dinner for firemen, auxiliary members and their families will be served on the carnival grounds on Sunday, Aug. 2, immediately before the carnival opens. Time of the picnic lunch was changed to 1 p.m. instead of 2. Those attending should bring table service and a covered dish.

Virginia Lits and Freda Bolyosky were welcomed as new members, by Joan Silver who presided at the business meeting.

Sept. 9 was announced as the next meeting date with the meeting to be held in the POS of A Hall, Anadolink with the women of Northern Stroud as hostesses.

New Deadline
Deadline for copy for stories to appear the following day on Family Fare has been advanced to 5 p.m. Advance announcements of meetings should be in the office several days before the desired date of publication.

5 Slate Belt Communities Discuss 2 Garbage Plans

BANGOR — Representatives of five Slate Belt communities discussed the pros and cons of both land fill and incinerator type garbage disposal at a joint meeting Monday night in Bangor.

The meeting was called to try to find a solution for the long standing garbage disposal problem existing in the Slate Belt area.

Kenneth Hohe, state sanitarian in Northampton County, said the problem has existed for 10 or 15 years. It was brought to a head recently when Washington Township filed charges against Roseto Borough employees for violating a township ordinance against dumping.

Most garbage in the area is dumped into abandoned slate quarries and the slate sanitarians fear the water in the bottom of these quarries will become contaminated and over a period of time seep into streams and lakes, creating contaminated water used for drinking or recreation.

Most representatives at the meeting favored system of disposal. By this system land is bulldozed over trash dumped in a given area.

Joseph Panponti, state sanitarian, when asked which was the better system, said "wherever land is at a premium, incinerators are better; but if an abundance of land is available land fill is the cheaper operation."

The representatives agreed there was more than enough land available for the land fill operation but decided to have definite figures on the cost of both operations put before the next meeting.

With the incinerator type operation trash is burned and only the ashes need be buried, it was pointed out.

Bangor, Pen Argyl, Wind Gap and Roseto boroughs and Washington Township were represented at the meeting. All agreed that it would be cheaper to have one garbage disposal area for all the surrounding communities than one for each area.

Roseto was represented by John L. Marfoel, Vito Trigiani, Leonard Casciano, Leonard Romano and Matthew Sabatini; Pen Argyl by Mayor Christy Snyder and Harry Arndt; Wind Gap by Russell H. Roper.

Washington Township by Harold LaPenna and Leftoy Hester; and Bangor by Mayor Quintus LaBar, Troy Reigel, Merlin Tucker, Rex Erdman, Leonard Gruppo, Albert Jones, and J. Lawrence Davis, Borough solicitor.

Panponti suggested that the representatives plan for at least 20 to 30 years in the future. He said they should choose three or four possible land fill sites and fold them it takes 1 1/2 to 2 acres per 10,000 people per year to operate a land fill properly.

He then requested representatives to contact people in their communities with land available for possible use as a land fill area.

A meeting was set for Aug. 10 at 7:30 p.m. in the Bangor Council chamber. Panponti said he will have a study of the Whitehall Township incinerator system, and will ask someone from A. L. Weisenberg Engineers of Allentown to attend the meeting and explain the details of the system.

Gap Pushes Celebration

DELAWARE WATER GAP — Plans are being stepped up in Delaware Water Gap as the borough prepares for its 75th Borough Celebration.

The platform committee of Franklin Rohaley, Robert Clarkson and George Rohaley is supervising the clearing of a lot on Main St. where the 30 by 60 foot platform will be set for speakers and musicians.

The decorations committee, headed by Mrs. Roy Carrescia, Mrs. George Brands and Mrs. John Jones, will have red and white decorations on five poles along Main St. with red and white roses topping the poles.

Mrs. Brands is making a 4 by 12 foot borough insignia for the front of the platform.

Mayor Arthur B. Lehr has appointed three special policemen increasing the force to nine men for duty Friday and Saturday, July 31 and Aug. 1, the two days of the celebration.

The float parade scheduled for Saturday night will have 12 or more floats under the theme "Past and Present."

An essay contest for area school children has been opened. Dr. David Schulmann will present a copy of a scroll painted by a famous artist and given to Caroline Kennedy on President Kennedy's inaugural to the child who writes the best essay on "My Home Town." A cash award will also be given the winner. Essays must be in by next week.

The porch of the Vacant White Fawn House, opposite the bandstand, will be used as a display area for art and handicraft submitted by youngsters. There will also be a display of antique photographs and mementos of earlier days.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmendorf Runyan have been asked to take charge of the committee.

Mrs. Louis Smolak is chairman of the hot-dog stand and will be assisted by Mrs. Willard Jennings and Mrs. Stephen Matos.

Tuesday's special event will be the appearance of the Keystone Grenadiers, Pennsylvania VFW Drum and Bugle Corps.

On Wednesday, Jim Heynolds and the Country Drifters, with their country music program, will appear at the fairgrounds. There will be square dancing to Art Ober's Old Rangers Group on Thursday.

Friday's feature will be the "Battle of the Quartets," with both barbershop and folk music. Among the participants will be The Night Owls; The Lakesiders; and the Out-of-Towners.

Saturday's finale will be a gigantic fireworks display. All entertainment at the carnival is free according to Cndr. Allen Cross, who heads the Legion post.

Summer Christmas Service Held At Bangor Church

BANGOR — Harold Anglemeyer was in charge of the 13th annual summer Christmas service held in St. John's Evangelical and Reformed Church Sunday.

The service was held under the auspices of the Women's Guild of the church.

The Christmas lesson from St. Matthew 2:11 was given by Ralph Buzzard, Rev. John C.

Brumbach gave a Christmas story, "You Are Santa's Helpers." Christmas songs were sung.

Women's Guild gifts, to be sent to East Harlem Protestant Parish, New York City, were dedicated by the pastor. It was announced gifts will be accepted until Aug. 2.

The message by the Rev. Mr. Brumbach at the worship service was "Unrealized Ambitions." Clark Hahn and Harold Rice were special ushers.

Mrs. Helen Becker accompanied the choir. Rev. Mr. Brumbach baptized Renee Ann Williams, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Cary Williams. Sponsors were Mrs. Jean Shoemaker and Leonard Farace.

Cambridge, Md. (AP)—Charles Cornish, a Negro, was elected president of the Cambridge City Council this week. He is the first member of his race to hold such a post in Maryland.

Cornish was chosen as the five-man council reorganized after last week's bitterly contested municipal elections that pivoted largely on the town's recent history of troubled race relations.

Pharmacists Award $500 Scholarship

TAMMINT — Joseph James Boyle of Mahanoy City was awarded the seventh annual Pepsodent Presidential Scholarship by the Pennsylvania Pharmaceutical Association yesterday.

The scholarship, sponsored by the Personal Products Division of Lever Brothers Co., carries a total cash award of $500 presented in annual payments by the president of the Pennsylvania Association to an outstanding young man or woman from Pennsylvania seeking a career in pharmacy.

Boyle graduated from Mahanoy Area High School and last year attended Pennsylvania State University, the Pottsville Center. He plans on applying this scholarship to his pre-pharmaceutical studies at Temple University.

As president of the Association, Mr. Canning was also honored with a special President's Plaque for "outstanding service and contributions to pharmacy in Pennsylvania".

The award was presented by J.J. Ferrick of Lever Brothers Company, which is contributing the Pepsodent Presidential

Revolution In Baseball

AL Starts Stealing
NL's Bat Thunder

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—A revolution, so free of fanfare it is barely being noticed, has begun going on in the major leagues this year.

Batting power, for so many years the mark of the National League, is steadily and unmistakably swinging over to the American League.

The National League has the slugging reputation plus such long ball hitters as Henry Aaron, Willie Mays, Frank Howard, Willie McCovey, Eddie Mathews, Ernie Banks, Frank Robinson and Orlando Cepeda. But the American, through the half-way mark, has outscored the National 938 to 690, and is fast closing in on the record for most home runs in a season.

Threatens Record
Minnesota with 14 homers in 93 games, is threatening the record of 240 set by the New York Yankees in 1961.

Conversely, National League pitchers have turned in more shutouts, hurled more low-hit games and possess all three no-hitters registered in the majors this year.

American League Harmon Killebrew of Minnesota leads the majors in home runs. Boston's Dick Stuart, another American Leaguer, has driven in the most runs. Killebrew's teammate, Tony Oliva, has the most hits.

Most Homers
Stuart and Pete Ward of the Chicago White Sox are threatening the record for most home runs with the bases full. Both have hit three. Killebrew five times this season has smashed two home runs in a game. Earl Wilson of the Red Sox, a pitcher, already has hit four home runs.

Seven American Leaguers have hit 20 or more home runs to only two in the National. Eight American Leaguers have knocked in six or more runs in a game compared to two in the National. American Leaguers have 25 grand slams, National Leaguers 12.

Americans Favor
In pinch hit homers, the score is 23-12 in the American's favor. Reasons for change may be partly due to interleague trading.

American League sluggers Stuart, Leon Wagner, Don Demeter, Joe Adcock, Bill Skowron, Fred Whitfield, Jim King and John Orsino all wore National League uniforms not too long ago.

Seitz Catches Two Big Bass
SAYLORSBURG — The fish are biting at Saylor's Lake — at least for Bud Seitz, anyway. The 42-year-old Saylor'sburg angler last night caught a 19-inch, 3 pound, 15-ounce large bass. On Monday he nabbed a 20-inch, 4-pound, 2-ounce large mouth bass.

Both were caught on a hair frog and fly rod.

Schlegel, Christine Win Blind Partners Tourney
SHAWNEE — The team of Diane Schlegel and Mrs. Elmer D. Christine carded a net 62 as the Shawnee Women's Golf Association competed for top honors in a best ball of blind partners tournament yesterday at the Shawnee Country Club.

Each player played with full handicap over the red and blue course while the professionals paired partners according to handicaps for the tournament prize. Only upon completing a full 18 holes did the Shawnee women know who had been their blind partner for the day's tournament.

In other scoring honors for the day Mrs. Herbert C. Behrens scored an 81 to take top honors for low gross in Class A. Scoring a 99 for the day's event was Mrs. Edward Williams who took top honors in Class B. Al took top honors in Class C. The highest score for class C, the low gross honors in that group went to Mrs. Edward Cassady who shot a 110.

28 Puts
Mrs. Robert Bixler carded 28 puts to win the low putting prize. A three-way tie was recorded for the associate putters as Mrs. Joseph Schlegel, Mrs. C. Elwood Hintze and Mrs. Earl B. Hartman shared top honors.

Members were reminded that a rain date has been set at Glen Brook for Thursday, July 23. A shotgun start will open the round of golf promptly at 9 a.m.

Mrs. Harry Sykes, association president, reminded members that next week the Shawnee golfers will play host to the women from York, "The York Ladies" will team up with the Shawnee golfers on Monday at the Glen Brook golfers play host to the three teams. On Tuesday, the Shawnee golfers will play host to the group on the Shawnee course.

Return Match
Mrs. Bixler announced that the Shawnee golf team will play a return match with the York's Hollow team on Wednesday, July 29 at Harker's Hollow. At an official board meeting following Tuesday's luncheon the governing board voted to eliminate qualifying rounds for the club championship to be held during the week of Aug. 10 all members.

Phillies Topple Braves, 6 To 3

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Relief ace Jack Baldschun pitched out of a bases loaded jam in the eighth inning Tuesday night, preserving Philadelphia's 6-3 victory over Milwaukee and protecting the Phillies' slim hold on the National League lead.

Baldschun replaced Art Mahaffey with one out in the eighth, the bases jammed and the Phillies ahead 4-2. He got Hank Aaron to hit into a force play as a run scored, then retired Joe Torre on a tap in front of the plate.

The Phillies scored four two-runners in the ninth, wrapping up only their fifth victory in the last 14 games. The loss was the fourth for the Braves in 14 games.

Heavy Hitting
Home runs by Bobby Wine and Tony Taylor off Milwaukee southpaw Wade Blasingame and three hits by Richie Allen staked Mahaffey, now 9-4, to a 3-0 lead but the Braves rallied for two in the seventh.

Third Homer
Wine hit his third homer off Blasingame in the second. Taylor then belted his third inside the right field pole, leading off the sixth.

Allen's third hit, a double, and a double by Tony Gonzalez produced another run in the sixth. A double by Taylor, a fielder's choice, a wild pitch and a single by Wine gave the Phillies another run in the eighth. Philadelphia 010 002 012—6 14 2

Yankees Blast Senators, 7-1

NEW YORK (AP) — Tom Tresh crashed two home runs and Jim Bouton pitched a four-hitter leading the New York Yankees to a 7-1 victory over Washington Tuesday night.

Tresh connected with the bases empty in the second inning and hit his 12th homer following a walk to Roger Maris in the fourth. Both homers came off loser Dave Stenhouse, 0-6. Tresh also doubled and scored in the sixth and walked, stole second and scored in the eighth.

Ninth Victory
Chuck Hinton collected half of the Senators' hit total off Bouton, who breezed to his ninth victory in 17 decisions. Hinton beat out a first inning bunt and hit his ninth homer in the sixth. Jim King and Don Blasingame got the other hits — both singles.

John Blanchard singled home two runs in the sixth after a single by Joe Pepitone and Tresh's double.
Jim King fell while trying to field Bouton's fly ball in the eighth and it went for a double as Tresh and Elston Howard, who had been walked intentionally after Tresh's steal, raced across with the Yankees' last two runs.

Cy Barrett Says

Where To Find A Job

By Cyrus Barrett, Jr.
DEAR CY:

After a session at summer school, we expect our son to get his high school diploma. Quite naturally, as parents, we would like him to get started on a career with growing opportunities. What are "service industries"? A speaker at his regular high school said, "For an increasing growth in jobs, it will be the service industries."

MR. HURD

DEAR MR. HURD:

The American economy is welded together with goods producing and service industries. Traditionally the goods producers were dominant. Then, in 1949, employment in service industries forged ahead by 2 million workers.

By 1963, 41 million persons were supposedly working in goods-producing industries while 59 million were drawing paychecks in services. With over 50 percent of capital investment outlays made by service industries, it appears this group will continue to grow and expand job opportunities.

Signs point this way as the public has shown its willingness to continue spending for services, although the government is expected to cut back defense orders. Now let's define our terms.

According to the U.S. labor department, service industries include wholesale and retail trade, local and state governments, insurance, real estate, finance, transportation; public utilities; research and development; and professions, including medicine, law, education.

Goods-producing industries encompass manufacturing, mining, construction and agriculture. The reduction of those employed in agriculture (3 million less in the last 15 years) has been the big drag on goods-producing industries. The speaker at your son's high school was correct. More jobs and more new jobs will crop up in service industries within the next 10 years.

CY

DEAR CY:

My uncle who used to send things to relatives in Czechoslovakia died last month. How do I go about finding out what can be sent or not sent to this Iron Curtain country? Must I check with U.S. customs? Any suggestions for wrapping my parcels?

F. P. D.

DEAR F. P. D.:

Check on Czechoslovakia at your U.S. post office. If they don't have a Directory of International Mail there with the answers, they can get it. I suggest you send material in a carton and make a pattern of it. Cut a canvas cover from the pattern and sew it on for best results. Parcel post to Czechoslovakia, incidentally, costs 90 cents for the first two pounds and 35 cents for each additional pound. No used clothing may be sent to Czechoslovakia.

CY

DEAR CY:

How do I get hold of Ethel Korman, the divorcee who handpainted neckties as gifts or company prizes? You didn't say how many ties she personalizes and designs each day or what she charges? May I have an answer immediately?

CALVIN

DEAR CALVIN:

Mrs. Ethel Korman is sole owner and sole operator of Kay Whittier Designs at 2319 Fairfield Road, Kalamazoo, Michigan. She paints and personalizes around 25 neckties each day, priced from $6 to $10. Mrs. Korman would welcome a business inquiry.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Washington Report

French President DeGaulle To Give News 'Audience'

By Richard Spong

WASHINGTON — President de Gaulle of France submits to another of his rare press conferences on Thursday, July 23. At the time of the last previous press conference of President Charles de Gaulle of France, a Paris newspaper ran a cartoon of the general asking questions, "Do you wish to pose questions to my answers?"

The exaggeration is less than one might think who is not familiar with De Gaulle's news management.

An irreverent American has described a De Gaulle press conference as an audience, in the royal meaning. Gaullists call it the Fifth Republic's "absolute weapon."

In another sense, De Gaulle is something of an austere school master lecturing a bunch of naughty or at worst backward pupils. Naughty or backward because most of the French press is hostile to De Gaulle.

All questions are submitted in advance, but in the midst of his discourse the President may decide he wants to talk about an additional subject.

At his conference last January De Gaulle loftily changed the subject from the European Common Market to Communism.

China, which is a gear shift worthy of a Stirling Moss at top form. He feels loathly free to ignore or refuse to answer a question.

The De Gaulle conferences, if not exactly what the press would like them to be, nevertheless make news.

The big news of the last was his proposal that Viet Nam, Laos, and Cambodia be neutralized with the cooperation of Communist China.

So the conference on Thursday will be watched carefully, particularly for any political intimations.

De Gaulle likes to keep well above mundane politics, but he has already given a few indications of his intentions.

During his tour of southeast France last autumn — his 20th swing through the provinces — he returned to power in 1958 — he declared at Orange: "I feel I have been able to discern what is useful for the French people, what the French people want, for a quarter of a century. I am resolved, since I still have the strength, to continue to do this."

Whistling in Picardy more recently, he said in Laon: "I am resolved more than ever to serve my country as long as I shall have the strength."

2 Jailed In Default Of Fines

EAST STROUDSBURG—Earl F. Mosier, 29, of 75 Brown St., East Stroudsburg, was jailed for 30 days in default of fine after he pleaded guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct and breach of the peace at a hearing Monday before Harold Larison Sr., justice of the peace in East Stroudsburg.

Carl G. Amiller, 43, of 29 Washington St., East Stroudsburg forfeited $19 bail when he did not appear for a hearing yesterday before Larison on a charge of disorderly conduct and breach of the peace.

TV To Film Roseto Life

ROSETO—A Philadelphia TV station will film various aspects of life in Roseto this weekend. WCAU-TV, Channel 10, is shooting the picture for its daily program, "Around Town," which is shown daily from 1 to 1:30 p.m. No date has been set for the showing of the Roseto film.

A portion of the filmed program will be based on the American Medical Assn. Journal report. It will include a talk by Dr. Stewart Wolf of the University of Oklahoma Medical Center, who is head of the heart study program in Roseto and Bangor.

There will be filming of many areas in Roseto, including shots of the industrial section, and the annual Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church celebration. Also recorded will be a series of movies of a typical Roseto family.

Bill Hart will be narrator and host of the show. He has spent the last few weeks in Roseto gathering data prior to the filming. The show is produced by Michael Zeamer with Greg Walter, assistant. The crew will arrive in Roseto Friday night.

Woman Escapes Crash Injuries

RICHMOND — Nellie Buchanan of Belvidere, N.J. was uninjured Monday when her car failed to negotiate a curve in Upper Mt. Bethel Twp. about two miles north of Richmond at 9:25 a.m., state police at Easton said.

Her car ran off the road and came to rest at the bottom of an embankment, according to the report. Damage was estimated at $400.

Barrett Pool Committee To Invite Club Support

MOUNTAIN HOME — The Charles Geissinger Memorial Pool committee met last night in the Barrett Branch YMCA and emphasized that the pool would not be tax-supported.

A second meeting has been set for Monday, July 27, at the YMCA at 8 p. m.

Ogden Named Knights 21st District Aide

STROUDSBURG — James T. Ogden has been appointed district deputy for the 21st District of the Knights of Columbus. This was announced yesterday by Carmen R. Capone, state deputy of the Pennsylvania Knights of Columbus.

The 21st District is composed of the Father DeNasco Council 3862 in Bangor, the Pocono Mountain Council 4159 in Cresco, and the Father Butler Council 4184 in Stroudsburg.

Ogden has been active in the order's activities for many years. He has held the following positions in the Father Butler Council and assembly: six-point chairman, chief counselor of the Columbian Squares for two years, grand knight for two years, faithful navigator of the Fourth degree for two years, and presently is serving as president of the Home Assn. He is a trustee of the council.

He recently attended a district meeting in Harrisburg called by the state deputy.

Small Brush Fire Put Out

SCIOTA — About 30 square feet of field burned behind the Old Mill Ice Cream stand at the intersection of Rt. 12 and Rt. 209 in Sciota Sunday at 1:30 p.m.

Twenty men and four pieces of equipment from the Blue Ridge Hook and Ladder Volunteer Fire Co. rushed to the scene. However, the fire was extinguished before firemen arrived. The fire was started from rubbish burning nearby, chief George Kitchen said.

Vagrant Jailed 30 Days

STROUDSBURG — Martin W. Smykla, 20, of Chicago was committed to the Monroe County Jail for 30 days on a charge of vagrancy yesterday. He was apprehended by Stroudsburg State Police in Ross Twp. and was found guilty at a hearing before Ruth E. Miller, Stroud Twp. justice of the peace.

Though bamboo is thought of as a tropical plant, many of the 700-odd species flourish in temperate zones. Some of the bamboos imported into the United States endure temperatures down to 7 degrees below zero.

At the meeting, officer will be elected.

Civic and service organizations in Barrett Twp. will be contacted to send two representatives to act on a new pool authority.

Clubs include the Pocono Mountain Rotary, Barrett Lions, Barrett Community Club, Barrett Junior Women's Club and Evans-Blitz American Legion Post 922 and Auxiliary.

Club representatives are to work on a community pool and act on the authority for a two-year period.

Any information pertinent to the community pool will be brought to the meeting Monday.

Mrs. Dale Price, acting chairman, last night noted that the authority would act to raise money by subscription and donations to build a pool without the use of tax money.

The Lions, Junior Women and Community Club have money set aside for a community pool. Money raised in the township by Charles Geissinger before his death has been placed in trust until a community pool can be built.

The authority will act on its own behalf to establish the pool by purchasing land, raising funds, and running the pool.

Peak Demand For Electricity

STROUDSBURG — Not everyone is unhappy with the hot, humid weather we have had lately.

Due to increased use of air conditioners on Monday the Metropolitan Edison Co. reported a new peak demand for electricity at 2 p.m.

This means that more electricity was being used at that moment than at any other time in the 81-year history of the company according to Blain F. Fabian, supervisor of publicity at Metropolitan Edison.

Fabian said the company, which serves a section of the area, met the demand without sweating a bit.

19 Cited For Cost Savings

WASHINGTON, D. C. (AP)—The Pentagon has cited 19 civilian and military workers, including four from Pennsylvania, for their contributions to Defense Department savings of $2.5 billion for the past fiscal year.

The men are "representative of those thousands of individuals who have participated in cost savings action," the Pentagon said.

The nineteen will receive a certificate of merit at a Pentagon ceremony Tuesday presided over by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara.

Among those to be honored are: Cletus R. Beard, ordinance supply office, Mechanicsburg; Ladislav Boor, defense clothing and textile center, Philadelphia; Louis Del Colle, defense industrial supply center, Philadelphia; and Jack West, defense industrial supply center, Philadelphia.
